Nancy de Marigny Decides To Tell Troubles to Mother

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 16.—(CP)—First official intimation of the size of the fortune left by Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian mining millionaire, came today as new uncertainties piled up for Alfred de Marigny who was recently acquitted on charges of killing his wealthy father-in-law.

Sir Harry's fortune, according to Walter Foskett, attorney for the family, amounts to about $25,000,000, and he termed private estimates that have ranged as high as $200,000,000 "fantastic." He said Sir Harry owned only 40 per cent of the stock of the Lake Shore gold mine in Ontario.

Meanwhile, word was awaited from de Marigny on what he planned to do concerning the surprise cancellation of his re-marriage in the Roman Catholic church to his wife Nancy and his official invitation to leave the island.

She is a Protestant and he is a Roman Catholic.

PLANS FLY TO U.S.

Nancy Oakes de Marigny planned to fly to the United States today to discuss her troubles with her mother, Lady Oakes, but she was unable to get a plane seat at the last minute.

She had projected a trip to Palm Beach, where Lady Oakes is resting, to confer about the problems which have arisen since her husband was acquitted.

After keeping a priest waiting at the St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic church for more than an hour, Alfred de Marigny reported he was ill and would postpone his re-marriage to his wife, Nancy.

Earlier, the twice-divorced de Marigny said he had obtained an archbishop's permission for another ceremony because the couple were not married in a church before. Friends later indicated Nancy de Marigny was surprised by the wedding plans and wanted more time to reconsider them.

VALIDATE MARRIAGE

Father Bonaventure, provicar apostolic of St. Francis Xavier church, and a member of the Order of St. Benedict, described the scheduled ceremony as a "validation of marriage" rather than a re-marriage.

"We welcome de Marigny back into the church and his function as a Catholic" he commented.

"We seek to do Christ's work in welcoming back sheep which were lost."

Italians in France Are Still Fighting Against Nazi Units

MADRID, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The deadline set by German authorities for the surrender of Italian forces still fighting the Nazis in the mountains of southern France, expired today, but reports from France indicated only a few hundred laid down their arms as demanded. The Germans had offered amnesty to Italians who surrendered before the deadline.

Asks Deportation Of All Japs in U.S.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The National Grange convention was urged by its California representative today to go on record as demanding that all Japanese in the United States at the end of the war be deported to Japan. "California farmers are convinced," George Schimper said, "that Japanese, whether born in this country or not, are loyal to Japan."

To Australia

The Duke of Gloucester, 43-year-old brother of King George, will become governor-general of Australia next July, it was announced in London today. The Duke will succeed Lord Gowrie, whose term was scheduled to expire Jan. 22, 1944, but has been extended an additional six months. (See story Page Three).

British Holding Own on Leros

CAIRO, Nov. 16.—(AP)—British troops in fierce hand-to-hand fighting "continue to hold" the Germans on the island of Leros, despite "heavy and incessant bombing attacks" by German planes, a Middle East communique declared today.

The German line thrown across the narrow neck of the island has been broken, and British troops have re-established north-south communications, it was learned.

The spirit of the defenders was termed "magnificent."

U.S. bombers hit one of two destroyers near Leros.

Nazis May Quit Northern Norway

By EDWIN SHAKE

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The crippled condition of the German fleet may force the Nazis to abandon northern Norway as a naval base and even evacuate the far north before the turn of the year, responsible naval authorities here believe. Some units of the fleet have been withdrawn to the Baltic sea during the last few months.

Another reason for withdrawing the German fleet from Norway's fjords is the fact that the Allies no longer send convoys to Murmansk. It was to combat this supply line to Soviet Russia that the Germans moved some of their heaviest units into the northern waters.

Obscure Hints

Believe Petain Suffers Stroke or Was Attacked

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The German radio hinted obscurely at "certain inner political tendencies in France," apparently in connection with Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, who is reported to have suffered a stroke or an attack by partisans.

Berlin apparently felt it necessary to recognize these reports, but did so in mysterious language. A broadcast asserted.

"In regard to rumors spread abroad concerning the background of the allegedly cancelled broadcast speech of French Chief of State Marshal Petain, Berlin political circles declared Tuesday noon that there seemed to be an indication of certain inner political tendencies in France, on which, however, Berlin did not desire to define its attitude."

Vichy reports said Petain had been scheduled to make a speech Saturday. The speech was not given, and Petain failed to appear on a balcony before expectant crowds on Sunday, these dispatches said. The newspaper La Suisse in Geneva said editorially yesterday it had reliable information that Petain had suffered a stroke. Another unverified report said he had been attacked by "partisans."

Mayor States:

Plan Continue City Dimout to Conserve Coal

Edmonton's dim-out regulations instituted by the city commissioners to conserve coal during the recent miners' strike will be continued until present coal supplies coming to the power plant make it reasonably safe to permit street lighting and after lighting to return to normal, Mayor John W. Fry stated Tuesday.

It was reported by City Commissioner R. J. Gibb that coal supplies to the power plant were increasing, but the stock pile was considerably below the safety quota. If supplies continue to arrive it will be possible to modify the dim out, if not entirely eliminate it.

The dim-out is being continued, Mayor Fry stated, to assist in the building of reserves against future contingencies.

A hundred per cent response was given to the "return to the mines" resolution by miners in the Edmonton district, according to officials of the U.M.W.A., while operators in the Edmonton field reported that full shifts are now working in all mines in the district.

Coal started streaming from the mines late on Monday afternoon, although at many of the pits there was early delivery of coal to pithead. This coal had been mined prior to the strike, and had not been hoisted to the surface.

While the strike in Alberta and British Columbia had definitely ended on Monday, there were still about 400 miners in the Mountain Park and Mercoal districts who were still on strike.

Submissions on behalf of the miners in the Edmonton and East Coulee fields will be made to the Royal Commission on Wednesday morning. In the meantime the commission members are working on their report on the main demands of the miners for wage increases and better working conditions.

The power break Monday necessitated the closing down of many mines in the district until repairs of the high tension line had been effected by city linemen.

Coal continues to arrive at the main power plant from the Cannem mine. Approximately 400 tons came through from the strip mine on Monday to make a total of 1,000 tons for two days of nearly 700 tons. Civic officials said Tuesday they hoped there would be a step up in coal deliveries from this source. Some coal was delivered from city mines on Monday.

Young Captain Is Man Behind U-Boat Clean-Up

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—One of the youngest captains in the Royal Navy, Acting-Captain C. P. Clarke, has been revealed as the man behind the operations sweeping the seas comparatively free of Nazi U-boats.

A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, disclosed in a speech at Weston-Super-Mare that Capt. Clarke has been director of operations against U-boats for two years.

Now, with success of the job assured, he is going to sea to command "a great ship" which, Mr. Alexander did not identify.

Noted Archbishop Passes in the East

HALIFAX, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Most Rev. John MacKenley, 66, Anglican Archbishop of Nova Scotia died yesterday afternoon at his summer home in Upper Lahaven, N.S., where he was taken following a heart attack at Bridgewater, about 10 miles distant. He was created archbishop in 1934.

Archbishop MacKenley, a native of Cape Breton, Eng., was ordained in 1905 and after serving 20 years in various Nova Scotia parishes, was elected bishop coadjutor of Nova Scotia in 1924. He was consecrated Bishop at Halifax on Jan. 6, 1925.

In 1934, he became Archbishop of Nova Scotia and in 1939 he was made Metropolitan of the Ecclesiastical Province of Canada.

He was married Sept. 16, 1941, to Vera Dauphinee, a nurse, in Halifax.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Two formations of American Flying Fortresses and a third of Liberators smashed today at vital military targets in Norway, and returning crewmen reported that the results were "excellent."

First reports of the assault in force on the Norwegian ramparts of Nazi Europe did not permit the identification of the objectives. The Berlin radio reported that Oslo had an hour-long air alarm around noon, and gunfire "from far distant" was heard in the capital.

Flying the hundreds of miles from British bases, the American airmen found conditions good over the target areas and visibility ideal.

LIGHT OPPOSITION

They met comparatively light anti-aircraft and fighter opposition.

The Eighth Air Force's powerful blow at Norway sent one formation of Flying Fortresses seeking out a target of prime importance. Even to locate the target from the air represented a considerable feat of navigation, and observers believed it would have been impossible by night or in poor visibility.

The crewmen said they were positive they dumped their explosives "right on the nose."

A second Fortress formation concentrated on another target some miles distant, while the Liberators bombed military installations at

Premier Manning

Warns Against Socialist Plans Of Any Party

MEDICINE HAT, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Premier E. C. Manning warned Canadians in an address here last night to beware of any party, under whatever name it chose to call itself, which preached the principles of socialism.

"We are at war," Mr. Manning said, "to defeat the aspirations of a socialistic nation trying to force their ways of government upon us," adding "are we going to be blind and let it creep in the back door in our very midst."

"Socialism," he declared, "is socialism, wherever it is found, whatsoever their veil or name it tries to hide itself."

NEED SECURITY, FREEDOM

Mr. Manning said aims for creating a better world to live in could be summed in two words—security and freedom—and declared "we need both—security with loss of freedom was vain, as well as freedom without security. To secure one without the other was easy, but it would be to no avail."

What was needed was an increase in the total amount of national income available, he said, but any proposed schemes to merely redistribute the pres-

Gen. Giraud Twice Offers to Resign

ALGIERS, Nov. 16.—Gen. Henri Honore Giraud has offered his resignation as commander of French armed forces twice within the last month, in apparent protest against his subordination to Gen. Charles de Gaulle on the national committee of liberation, but informed sources said today that he has agreed to retain his military command.

The conflict was understood to have been settled after de Gaulle and his supporters on the committee agreed to a series of conditions assuring Giraud a relatively free hand in his command of French armed forces.

Authorities of the military sources disputed the committee statement that Giraud had resigned voluntarily as co-president of the committee last Tuesday and said the General had no idea he was to be dropped until the committee informed him of his "resignation."

Free Hospital Service Plan For Maternity

CALGARY, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Government plans for free hospitalization of all maternity cases in Alberta after April 1, 1944, were announced by Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, provincial minister of health, at the joint conference of the Alberta Municipal Hospitals Association and the Alberta hospital Association here yesterday.

The details of the plan will be worked out by a joint committee of three representing the Hospital Associations and three representatives of the provincial health department.

The announcement was made by Dr. Cross during an address to the conference, which opened yesterday morning.

UNANIMOUS APPROVAL

He had suggested the free maternity hospitalization plan to the government, said Dr. Cross, and had obtained unanimous approval of the cabinet. If the Hospital Associations approved of the proposal, he said, arrangements would be made to put it into effect after April 1 and the necessary legislation would be passed at the forthcoming session of the legislature.

The convention of the Hospital Associations immediately passed

LONDON, Nov. 16.—British tankers now are fitted with a new compressed air device for use when torpedoed, and "tanker after tanker has been brought to port after receiving torpedo damage which one time would have been fatal," the ministry of war transport revealed today.

The ministry, in announcing the new device, said it had proved to be one of the most important and successful innovations of the war.

"Tens of thousands of tons of invaluable cargoes have been saved to add to the United Nations' huge petrol and oil supplies," the announcement said.

Maj. A. S. Donald Is Back in City From Overseas

An original officer of the First Battalion The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, Maj. Archie Scott Donald, former Edmonton school teacher, is back in Edmonton after nearly four years of service overseas.

Maj. Donald, better known as just "Archie" to his friends, has been through many of the recent hard actions with The Loyal Edmonton Regiment in Sicily and Italy. While Maj. Donald was with the Edmonton battalion it received high praise from official British Army Command sources for its gallant and skilful action.

The major, who returned to Edmonton over the week-end is at present resting at his home at 9842 112 street. Mrs. Amy Theresa Donald of Edmonton is his wife. They have one child.

Born in Glasgow, Scotland, Major Donald came to Edmonton as a boy. He attended public and high schools here. He first entered military service with The Loyal Edmonton Regiment in 1928 as a provisional lieutenant. He attained the rank of major in 1939 and went on active service with the First Battalion of the unit, mobilized for active service on the outbreak of war in September, 1939.

Before leaving for overseas in December of the same year he was assistant adjutant of the Regiment.

Maj. Donald was with the Canadian expedition that raided Spitzbergen in 1941 and destroyed installations of the Nazis at that far north coaling depot.

He was a member of the Edmonton public school teaching staff for several years and was on the staff of the King Edward school prior to going on military duty.

To Take Battleship to Reich

Report Nazis Plan to Move Tirpitz

By HUBERT UXKULL
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1943, by British United Press

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 16.—The Germans were reported preparing today to move the battleship Tirpitz from Norway to the Reich coast—a shift that might touch off an attack by British war vessels and planes to send the damaged ship to the bottom.

A 10,000-ton cruiser—possibly the Luetzow, which left Alifjord shortly before British midget submarines sneaked in and damaged the Tirpitz in September—was said to have been seen in North Norwegian waters along with the 26,000-ton battleship Scharnhorst. These, it was believed, might be used as escorts for the Tirpitz.

To reach a German port for drydocking and repairs, the Tirpitz would have to brave a long and hazardous journey down the Norwegian coast into the Skagerrak within reach of the British home fleet. Presence of the Luetzow as an escort was doubted inasmuch as she was reported damaged in an air raid on Gdynia.

According to Norwegian sources, torpedoes tore a big hole in the Tirpitz and it was doubted she would ever regain fighting ability. Many of her crew members were said to have been killed.

Since damages were such that the ship required repairs in drydock, the Germans were said to face the choice of writing off the craft as a battle unit or risking the trip southward.

Norwegians believed they had decided on the latter, planning to make use of the long nights now prevailing in the far north.

Russian Capture Of Great Gomel Base Is Imminent

By HENRY SHAPIRO
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1943, by British United Press

MOSCOW, Nov. 16.—Red armies rolled westward today on a 200-mile line, laying siege to Gomel and Rechitsa in a White Russian drive which threatened to split the German forces by unninging the central and southern fronts on both sides of the Pripet marshes.

Front reports indicated the fall of Gomel, key German base in lower White Russia, was imminent, and Rechitsa, across the Dnieper 25 miles to the west, was equally insecure. Both had been by-passed and now were under direct assault.

The German radio reported that well over 32 Russian divisions totalling some 500,000 men were attacking in five closely synchronized sectors of a 500 mile front—six to seven in the Dnieper Bend near Dnepropetrovsk, "strong forces" above Krivoi Rog; 10 divisions in the Heerkassy area; "strong" forces in a direct attack on Rechitsa; and 16 divisions along the Smolensk-Orcha highway. Dents or penetrations in the German positions on all fronts were acknowledged.)

COLLAPSE LIKELY

The collapse of the German defences in the Gomel sector, which would separate their armies by a Soviet wedge driven into the Pripet marshes, was heralded by the cutting of the Gomel-Pinsk-Warsaw railroad behind Rechitsa, leaving both Gomel and Rechitsa virtually isolated and under direct attack.

Attacking Red Army units also cut the trunk highway to Ovruch junction in the area southwest of Rechitsa. Detachments of Gen.

Germans Seize Child Hostages

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Germans have seized children as hostages in Poland, the Polish telegraph agency reported from London today.

The agency said 50 children had been taken in recent raids in Warsaw. Most of them were taken from a tuberculosis sanitarium in Otwosk, a suburb of Warsaw.

The population of Warsaw, the agency said, has been reduced from 1,500,000 to 950,000, as a result of executions and imprisonments.

Heaviest Aerial Blow Hits Burma

CALCUTTA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—R.A.F. medium and heavy bombers today carried out the heaviest and most concentrated attack on Burma since the war in the East began, it was announced here today.

The target was the railway station, freight yards and barracks at Pegu, 46 miles northeast of Rangoon.

A large number of aircraft dropped a heavy tonnage of high explosives, shattering the target.

Great Decisions By Allies, Russia Expected Soon

LONDON, Nov. 16 — (CP) — Military and political decisions surpassing those of the Moscow agreements—for a final victory drive in Europe in 1944, and to secure Russian-British-American post-war partnership for peace, are expected unofficially in London.

The expectation of historic new steps was heightened by reports from Washington and Vichy of a future conference of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin.

The Moscow conference of foreign ministers which met with such success had first been announced as the prelude to a meeting among the heads of the three governments.

TO FINISH OFF HITLER

The understanding here was that the main purpose of the foreign ministers was to explore areas of agreement and disagreement to determine whether actual meetings of the chiefs of state would be sufficiently fruitful.

Such a conference is expected to put fully in motion plans for a co-ordinated offensive to finish off Hitler in 1944, and place the final seal of approval on co-operation after the war for European settlements and to secure future peace.

Reds Threaten German Front By New Gains

Nikolai F. Vatutin's First Ukrainian army were moving up against Ovrush for a junction with the Soviet forces striking from White Russia.

Facing the drive west of the Middle Dnieper, swift Soviet cavalry and armored forces reached points 15 miles from Korosten and 25 miles from Ovruch.

SHIFT POWER NORTH

The consolidation of Soviet positions around captured Zhitomir enabled the Red command to shift the weight of its campaign northwestward.

The drive was aimed at ripping out the vital section of the German rail communications anchored on Korosten, Ovruch and Mozyr and winning a lateral line necessary to the next phase of the westward push toward the old polish border.

Powerful German armored forces were counter-attacking southeast of Zhitmoir and west of Fastov, struggling to gash the Soviet flank. Front reports said they achieved no success whatever.

The German garrison was expected momentarily to begin a frantic evacuation of Gomel—the only one of the city's five railroads remaining in their hands. The danger of encirclement was growing hourly.

DEFENCES CRUMBLING

The loss of Gomel probably would collapse the whole German position in White Russia. It would expose the other principal strongholds, Mogilev, Orsha and Vitebsk to a flanking drive and pave the way for a Russian advance toward the Baltic states.

(London sources said German's entire White Russian structure appeared to be crumbling. A German broadcast said a large Soviet force was advancing toward Orsha and unofficial reports reaching the British capital asserted that another Soviet army was moving within heavy artillery range of Vitebsk.)

West of Kiev, the Russians were reported to have driven to within artillery range of Korosten, strategic junction of the Odessa-Leningrad and Kiev - Warsaw railroads, and to have swept beyond Zhitomir to less than 60 miles from the old Polish border.

Training Scheme Useful After War

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Canada's wartime program of vocational training will have a significant value in the period of post-war re-adjustment, Paul Martin, Liberal member of parliament for Essex East and parliamentary assistant to Labor Minister Mitchell, said last night.

Reviewing the success of the vocational training program and operation of the wartime bureau of technical personnel, Mr. Martin in an address prepared for delivery to Toronto Junior Board of Trade, said that as soon as industry can make its needs known in any detail, through co-operation with the provinces and by use of machinery, how operating smoothly "we can train workers to fill vacancies arising in the changing economic structure at a rate considered impossible two or three years ago."

Enrolments in the war emergency training program from its start in 1940 to last Aug. 31, totalled 272,190, including workers already employed, members of the armed forces, and veterans taking rehabilitation courses, he said.

Canada and States Censured For Lack Of Aviation Plans

TORONTO, Nov. 16. — (CP) — Wayne W. Parrish, editor of American Aviation Associates of Washington, D.C., in a speech last night at the annual dinner of the Air Industries and Transport Association of Canada criticized Canadian and United States federal authorities for failure to evolve plans for the change from wartime to peacetime aviation manufacture.

Wartime contracts had permitted a tremendous expansion in the aviation industry, he said, but had not permitted establishment of reserves for the transition to peacetime production. He said the industry was "skating on thin ice" at present and a crisis was looming.

The association re-elected Robert Noordsyn of Montreal president.

Germans Expect Landing Behind Lines in Italy

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A large concentration of Allied vessels in Naples harbor and active British mine-sweeping operations in Gaeta gulf indicates the Allies are preparing to make an amphibious landing behind the German lines on the Tyrrhenian seacoast of Italy, Capt. Ludwig Sertorious, Nazi military commentator, claimed in a broadcast last night.

"Between Mignano and the Garigliano river mouth, the left wing of the 5th United States Army hardly has stirred for about a week," he said in a Berlin broadcast. "It is quite possible that this inactivity is caused by the not yet concluded preparations for the new Allied landing enterprise."

Sertorious said Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th Army was massing enormous quantities of artillery along the Sangro river front near the Adriatic, and that as soon as these preparations are complete "a mass attack against the Sangro sector must be reckoned with."

U.S. General Lauds British Evacuees

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Lt.-Gen. Jacob L. Devers, paying tribute to several hundred British families evacuated from southern England areas where troops are training for an invasion of Europe, said last night that "this training is needed to develop the balance and co-ordination of a master plan that will set into motion what may be the greatest military undertaking of all time."

"What will be accomplished in these localities," added the commander of the United States army in the European theatre of operations, "could become the difference between success or disaster for the Allied plan of operations."

"Success will justify sacrifices being made now by the land-owners."

Devers said the troops had been issued special orders to help preserve the land and properties in every way possible.

"As far as possible historical monuments, churches and similar buildings will be preserved," he assured the evacuees.

Devers said similar sacrifices are being made by thousands of persons in the United States.

29 Escape Injury As Big Aircraft Goes Off Runway

CHARLOTTETOWN, Nov. 16—(CP)—A plane laden with 29 persons charged off the end of a runway at the airport here in landing, but no one aboard the big machine was injured.

The aircraft rolled through two fences and smacked into a hedge before coming to a stop with nothing more than a shaking-up for its passengers and crew. It was not known whether the machine was seriously damaged.

Air force officers at the Charlottetown airport would not discuss the accident, which occurred early Sunday morning.

Reward Offered For Conviction Coast Prankster

VANCOUVER, Nov. 16.—(CP)—A reward of $500 will be paid by City of Vancouver to any person supplying police with information leading to the arrest and conviction of the prankster who turned in a false alarm Friday night.

A city fireman was killed, another seriously injured and two police officers were hurt in the collision of trucks answering the call.

City of Vancouver has also declared a standing reward of $100 for similar information in the turning in of future false alarms.

Yanks Forced To Yield Some Ground in Italy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 16.—Strong German counter-attacks aimed at stalling an Allied threat to the western end of the trans-Italy Nazi winter defence line have forced American troops to yield a small area of Mount Croce near Venafro, it was disclosed today.

While the remainder of the Italian battlefront remained quiet, American forces of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army, fighting in severe weather were forced to yield ground before two Nazi thrusts in the rugged terrain.

BELIEVED SLIGHT

They lost only one part of the hill and firmly held other heights above Venafro. The action showed clearly the importance the enemy attached to the area where an Allied break-through might collapse the anchorages laid in high ground to the west above the Gaigliano River.

The Allied commentator in announcing the action did not reveal the exact extent of the German gain north of Venafro but it appeared to be very slight.

Wintry weather covered both the Fifth and British-Canadian Eighth Armies, restricting their activities, a communique reported.

Only minor patrol skirmishes were reported along the Eighth Army front, running from the central heights of the Appennines to the Sangro River on the Adriatic coast.

The German defence on the Fifth's line was described as "active" but no changes occurred on the battle line except in the Venafro area.

an unanimous resolution of approval with the suggestion of the joint committee to work out the details.

The government had decided to take this step, provide period of definite information with regard to the national health insurance scheme.

Dr. Cross also announced that he had been authorized to bring legislation before the next session of the provincial house whereby the government would pay 50 cents a patient day towards the cost of caring for infirm and incurable persons who did not need active hospital treatment, but who required care.

The grant would be paid for persons of this class who were in government-approved accommodation.

MOVE APPROVED

The Hospital Associations passed a resolution approving this move.

Work of the province's department health units was also touched upon by Dr. Cross. The results achieved by these units had led the government to the decision that these units were the best possible way of giving the people all of the advantages that modern health preventative services had to offer, said Dr. Cross.

Palestine-Lebanon Frontier Is Closed

CAIRO, Nov. 16.—The Palestine-Lebanese frontier has been closed indefinitely, a Jerusalem dispatch said today, as Anglo-American pressure on the French for a speedy settlement of the Lebanese crisis increased.

(U.S. state department officials in Washington said formal representations had been made to the French Committee of National Liberation on the disturbances in Lebanon.)

Gen. Georges Catroux, the double-shooter for the committee, arrived in Beirut today with full powers to effect a settlement, and was met at the airdrome by Jean Helleun the French commissioner.

Richard G. Casey, British minister to the Middle East, impressed on Catroux at Cairo Britain's desire for a quick solution and presumably warned that British troops might intervene of order were not restored in short order.

Second Captive Exchange With Japan Planned

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(CP)—The Tokyo radio last night said that "negotiations are now under way for the second exchange ship between Japan and Britain." The Tokyo broadcast quoted a Japanese spokesman as making the statement in commenting on the recent arrival in Yokohama of the Tela Maru, the Japanese exchange ship.

still another point. The heavyweight bombers flew unescorted.

RAID ON GREECE

The raid was only the northern arm of a United States aerial bracket on the outermost reaches of Nazi Europe, because bombers of the Mediterranean fleet, accompanied Yugoslav airmen making their debut, hammered Nazi air fields near Athens.

The Germans have concentrated a large force of submarines at bases along the Norwegian coast, principally at Trondheim, for attacks on allied convoys in the North Atlantic. A Stockholm dispatch reported the Germans were preparing to move their torpedo-damaged super-battleship Tirpitz from its hideout at Oltfjord in northern Norway to Germany for repairs.

MOSQUITOS IN ACTION

British-based Mosquito bombers of the R.A.F. attacked western Germany last night with a loss of two planes, one fighter was lost on offensive patrol, the air ministry announced.

German planes scattered bombs over south and southwest England during the night and at one point—identified by the German radio as Plymouth—10 persons were killed and 15 to 20 were trapped beneath bomb-wrecked dwellings.

IN THE MEDITERRANEAN

In the Mediterranean theatre, Yugoslav Liberator crews teaming with American airmen showered hangars, administration buildings and parked aircraft at Eleusis airfield, 12 miles northwest of Athens, with tons of explosive and fire bombs. Several fires were started and the raid was described officially as successful.

At the Greek Eleusis airfield that these same Yugoslav fliers escaped in their own planes when Axis forces overran Greece in the spring of 1941.

HIT ANOTHER BASE

Allied medium bombers, also from the Northwest African air forces, yesterday hit the outer big German air base outside Athens, Kalamaki airfield, dropping explosives and fragmentation bombs. Here, too, a number of fires were started.

The raids were considered a direct blow at weakening German attempts to reach the Dodecanese Island of Leros in the Aegean from British and Italian troops. Some of the German bombers which supported the Nazi invasion were believed to have come from Athens, while others took off from Rhodes and possibly Crete.

Two Allied planes were lost in all operations in the Mediterranean theatre, which included limited sorties over the Italian battle area.

Partisans Forced Give Up Peninsula

By ROBERT RICHARDS

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Yugoslav partisans have evacuated the Pelješac Peninsula, a possible beachhead for an Allied invasion, under overwhelming pressure, a partisan communique said today.

The peninsula, which juts out into the Adriatic between Split and Lubrovnik (Ragusa), had been the scene of heavy fighting between German Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces and disarmed partisan units for more than a week.

The partisans seized control of Pelješac along with most of the Dalmatian coast and the outlying islands following Italy's surrender last September, but the Germans gradually have been recovering the territory.

In northwestern Yugoslavia, however, the partisans killed or wounded 1,500, yesterday and drove the remainder of six divisions — 90,000 men at full strength — back from the Sava River and a 20-mile stretch of the Zagreb-Trieste railway.

Success of Loans Intrigues Aussies

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Canada's success in floating Victory Loans has appealed greatly to the imagination of Australians and they are learning from the visiting Canadian press delegation how the job is done.

One newspaper writer, in a special article on bond-selling, quoted Arthur R. Ford, a member of the delegation, as saying that well-organized publicity, which included a canvass of practically every house in the country, was one of the outstanding reasons for success of Canadian war loans.

"Over there we set up a national publishers' committee representative of all parties and every province to take charge of national publicity," Mr. Ford told the Editor of the London, Ont., Free Press, and president of The Canadian Press, was quoted as saying. The work done is reflected in the success of the war loan."

Nazis Carry Out Mass Executions Italian Patriots

BERNE, Nov. 16.—(AP)—German occupation troops today carried out a series of mass executions of prisoners captured in a battle with Italian partisans near Domodossola yesterday, dispatches from Brigue to the newspaper La Suisse reported today.

The Italian wounded were removed from hospitals and, with prisoners captured by the Germans, were shot, La Suisse said.

First American Registers Here Under New Rule

John Hugh McNeill of Spokane was the first American to sign up with the American Consul Tuesday under the procedure which has been set up to register Americans in Canada who have not previously been recorded under the American Selective Service. Mr. McNeill, who is a resident of Drumheller, waited over specially in Edmonton to perform his duty before proceeding north.

The American consul started Tuesday to register Americans in Northwest Canada who have not previously registered for the draft. This order affects all American men between the ages of 18 and 45 who have either come to this part of Canada before reaching the age of 18, or who were residing in Canada at the time draft registration in the United States became effective.

MANY EXPECTED

The American consul expects that there will be several hundred Americans employed on the projects to be undertaken who are required to register. Arrangements are being made to appoint registrars at a number of points in the Yukon and North West Territories.

It is also expected that there will be several hundred Americans to be registered from among those who have been long-time residents of Canada, Americans residing some distance from Edmonton who are also liable to registration at this time should communicate by letter with the American consul who will provide shortly to designate registrars in places where it will be convenient for these persons to register.

He said that Canada's post-war aviation position is one of the most clear. "Post-war aviation is a subject which will place Canada in the spotlight of world attention, to a certain degree it has already placed her there," he continued.

Canada, said the minister, should be prepared to collaborate in the working out of four vital problems which would ensure that. Production capacity developed for war can be used for peace; political collaboration developed for war can be continued in peace, collective security accepted as automatic in time of war can be used as a basis of defensive arrangements for peace, and air transport which bridges national boundaries in war can be developed in peace through international agencies designed to free the air and bring the peoples closer together.

1,000-Pound Bomb Hits Jap Cruiser

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Nov. 16—A Catalina patrol bomber scored a direct hit on a Japanese cruiser Saturday in a new raid in the Rabaul area by Liberators based on Bougainville, with 51 tons of explosives, it was disclosed today.

Fate of the enemy light cruiser attacked 10 miles from the big Japanese New Britain base was not ascertained but the 1,000-pound bomb exploded squarely on the cruiser, Major General George C. Kenney, Douglas MacArthur's spokesman said.

Fifty miles northwest of Rabaul another Catalina hit a 10,000 ton merchant ship with four 500 pound bombers. The vessels were in small convoys moving to and from Rabaul, which has been blasted heavily in recent weeks to crush reinforcement shipped in by the enemy.

While only minor patrol clashes occurred between the Japanese and Allied troops on the Bougainville west coast, the Liberators hit at Buka Island, off the north tip of Bougainville.

Driver to Stand Trial in Alberta Airwoman's Death

BRANTFORD, Ont., Nov. 16.—(CP)—Magistrate R. J. Gillen late yesterday committed Robert Evans of Toronto for trial on charges of manslaughter, reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident, in the alleged driver of a motor car that struck and killed LAW. Edith Brownlee of Bridgeview, Alta., on the highway near here Oct. 9.

AW. Vera Hutchings, who was injured by the car while walking with LAW. Brownlee, also on the way, testified she had just been released from hospital and did not know anything about the accident until she recovered consciousness in hospital.

George M. Winn, said to have been a passenger in Evans' car, also facing a manslaughter charge but his hearing did not proceed yesterday.

American Night Is Observed at Church

Capt. James Reed Cox, chaplain at the American air base station here, addressed the congregation at the First Baptist church Monday night, on the occasion of "All American Night" observed at the church.

"Basic Beliefs" was the topic of his address, and Capt. Cox said "out of the heart come issues of life." What a person believes is of tremendous importance."

Capt. Cox stated that there is no conflict between science and true Christianity. He said the word of God starts out "In the beginning was God" and as long as that is so we need not fear.

He paid high tribute to the courage given by Edmonton churches in helping the servicemen.

Pte. 1st Class Robert Wheatley gave a brief talk on "Devotions." Pte. W. S. Bennett was gest soloist of the evening.

Drops 4,000 Nickels But Makes Profit

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A bag of 4,000 nickels broke open today as a money express man was crossing a subway grating on his way to an automat restaurant. He went to the lower level and recovered most of them. "While he was down there he found two dimes and two pennies," Patrolman Alvin Eckert commented later. "For all I know maybe he came out with a profit."

British Retain Determination Win War, Peace

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—The British people have had to tighten their belts another notch during the last six months but their determination to see the war through and make a contribution to the rebuilding of peace remains unimpaired, Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, United Kingdom high commissioner to Canada, said today at a press conference.

Mr. MacDonald returned to Ottawa last week from a five-week visit to Britain.

ADDED HARDSHIPS

Compared with his previous visit in the spring, he said, he found the people facing added hardships and difficulties.

"Life in Britain is thoroughly Spartan. Food rationing is severe,

"They show some signs of tiredness, as though they had not had sufficient holidays. There is no sign to squeak anywhere of war weariness. On the contrary, the whole people of Britain are resolved that the war must be carried until both the Germans and the Japanese have been defeated absolutely and finally.

"They regard it as an obligation which we owe to humanity that this time the enemy shall be taught an unforgettable lesson.

"The people of Britain are greatly sustained and cheered by recent war news; but they are keeping their optimism under restraint. They have had too many disappointments already in the war to waste time indulging in idle dreams of victory in early autumn."

CHURCHILL RATES HIGH

The prestige and authority of Prime Minister Churchill have never been higher, Mr. MacDonald said.

While opinion was general that the Germans would eventually resort to use of gas, it was felt a strong defence would be the ability of the United Nations to inflict far more telling blows with gas than the Nazis could hope to do.

Edmonton Officer Wins Decoration

Lt. John A. Dougan, 22 ,of The Loyal Edmonton Regiment has been awarded the Military Cross according to word received by his mother who lives at 8526 89 street.

He was mentioned in news dispatches during the fighting in Sicily. Wounded in Sicily and during that engagement and evacuated to North Africa where he twice had malaria, he was again wounded two months in hospital. He is now back in action in Italy. His father Staff Sgt. John Dougan, veteran of the First Great War, has also seen two years in Eastern Canada with the Canadian Armored Corps.

Describing the capture of Hill 736 Aug. 3 by detachments of The Loyal Edmonton Regiment under Maj. Archie Donald, Ross Munro stated that the actual attack was made by 35 men led by two subalterns, Lt. Dougan and Lt. Earl Mahler.

Lt. Christie was killed in the action.

Lt. Dougan was graduated in arts from University of Alberta in 1942. He was a member of the Varsity club, Gateway staff and the C.O.T.C.

He received his officer's training at Gordon Head and was commissioned in August, 1942, after which he went overseas.

V.V.R. Hears Talk At Regular Meet

Giving some impressions of conditions generally in the Old Land under wartime stress, Company Sergeant Major A. Peart was the speaker at the regular weekly parade of the North Edmonton Bn, Veterans' Volunteer Reserve, Monday night.

Sergt.-Major Peart, who returned to Edmonton recently after serving overseas from the beginning with The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, paid high tribute to the Home Guard and the many other volunteer groups over there who sacrifice all their spare time in various capacities to the defence of their own particular areas.

Big Export Demand For Seed Potatoes

OTTAWA, Nov. 16—(CP)—Export demand for Canadian Foundation, Foundation "A," and certified seed potatoes is "exceptionally strong" this season, the agriculture department said yesterday as it advised potato growers to order 1944 seed without delay. Supplies of seed are being held to meet estimated domestic demands, the department said, but will be released only to Canadian dealers or growers will be permitted "before it is too late to supply export markets."

HOW TO RELIEVE

PILE TORTURE

QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this painful trouble become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool or straining and proper treatment should be started at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from any druggist and use as directed. The formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet. It quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and embarrassing condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results your druggist will gladly return your money.

Fear Invasion

Rumanian Military Leaders Ask Strong Bug River Line

By FRANK BRUTTO

BERNE, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Influential military leaders at Bucharest have urged the withdrawal of German and satellite troops to the Bug river line for a stronger defence against Soviet armies, private advices from the Rumanian capital said yesterday. Some Rumanians fear Russian invasion of their territory may be only a matter of days.

While these reports through a diplomatic channel came in part by way of Budapest and therefore were subject to cautious appraisal, there was no doubt that extreme nervousness existed in the Rumanian capital.

One report said Rumanian military leaders had protested to the Germans that unless Axis troops were withdrawn to a more easily defended front the difficulty in keeping the population in line to continue the war would be almost insurmountable.

HUNGARY CAUTIOUS

Meanwhile, through the speeches and diplomatic manoeuvring of Premier Nicolas Kallay, Hungary endeavored to war off German efforts to gain more Hungarian troops for the eastern front.

In a speech Saturday Kallay coined a new phrase to describe Hungary's participation in the war. It was "belligerent neutrality."

Recalling the loss of 200,000 men in Russia, Kallay said that this was enough and that the nation had concentrated all its forces "solely to the defence of the frontiers."

Canada's Crude Oil Shortage Remains Acute

CLARKSON, Ont., Nov. 16.—(CP)—Canada's crude oil supply position is more critical today than it has been since the beginning of the war and there is no hope for the immediate relief of domestic users of gasoline, G. R. Cottrelle, oil controller of Canada, said in an address prepared for delivery here yesterday at the opening of a $9,000,000 British-American Oil Co. refinery. Clarkson is 15 miles from Toronto.

"Those who are doing wishful thinking that the war is so close to an end or the destruction of the submarine warfare will enable us to relax restrictions in the use of motor gasoline are mistaken," he said. "Further, in order to step up the production of aviation gasoline we will have to rob motor gasoline of its light ends. Motor gasoline, therefore, is not only shorter in supply than heretofore, but the quality will be poorer."

SERIOUS SHORTAGE

The crude oil shortage is more serious today than the transportation problem ever was, Mr. Cottrelle said, and not one of the major oil companies has as yet been able to contract for its entire crude oil needs for the coming year, a situation which had not arisen since the beginning of hostilities.

Referring to the fact that there are more than 10,000 aircraft being used in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, Mr. Cottrelle said "not a ship has been tied up, not a plane grounded, not one machine tool has been idle for want of petroleum products."

"If we hope to win this war, particularly if we hope to shorten it, everything must be done and every facility in the oil industry within the United Nations must be operated so as to provide our fighting forces with all the aviation gasoline and other petroleum products that they require," he said.

MUST FUEL SHIPS

Mr. Cottrelle pointed out that the Canadian oil industry is called upon to fuel the Royal Canadian navy, as well as all ships leaving Canadian shores, and to provide gasoline for the Atlantic patrol, the Ferry Command, the air training plan, commercial airlines and all aircraft leaving Canadian shores. It must also furnish the requirements of the army and provide petroleum products for industry.

During the last few years additional equipment has been added to existing refineries which contributed substantially to greater yields of essential products from the limited crude which was available, he said, and since the war a Montreal-Portland, Me., pipeline has been constructed capable of bringing in large quantities of crude.

A. L. Ellsworth, board chairman of the British-American company, said that under the direction of the oil controller the new refinery, building of which was financed by the company, will produce aviation gasoline to the total productive capacity of the plant, exceeding 1,000,000 barrels a year, together with lubricating oils, wax and fuel oil.

Widespread Campaign

Escaped Allied Prisoners Join Italian Guerillas Against Nazis

By ALDO FORTE

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

Copyright, 1943, by British United Press

BERNE, Nov. 16—Escaped American and British war prisoners have joined Italian patriots under Field Marshal Enrico Caviglia in a widespread guerilla campaign against the Germans in North Italy, frontier sports said today.

The combined forces have driven wedges into German lines between the Bremner Pass and the Po Valley, the reports said, and the Nazis have taken severe reprisals trying to stop their activities.

The American and British soldiers were said to be hundreds strong. They included war prisoners released by the Italians immediately after the armistice. Caviglia, 81, was reported to have taken command of Italian forces, including Alpini mountain troops who refused to join the Germans.

Their activity reportedly consisted of blowing up bridges, power stations and viaducts and hindering German troop movements by road blocks. Some Austrian patriots may be aiding them.

The campaign resulted in a state of siege throughout Lombardy, according to the Bari Nachrichten and in many industrial centres where hostages were being seized by the Nazis.

In Milan, 1,000 Italians were seized, and many of them shot. Heavy fines also were imposed. Besides those at Milan the Germans took 500 at Monza and 250 at Sesto San Giovanni.

Propaganda of Benito Mussolini's German-supported government was being centred on appeals to citizens to refuse to shelter the patriots and guerillas and to stop giving them arms, ammunition and food.

Shrine to Canadian Dead Built in Sicily

By LOUIS V. HUNTER

AGIRA, Sicily, Nov. 12.—(CP)—(Delayed)—A beautiful memorial cemetery for Canadian soldiers killed in action in Sicily is nearing completion near this mountain-top town where troops of the 1st Division achieved one of their greatest successes of the summer campaign.

Construction of the cemetery was started almost before the sound of the guns died away in Sicily in August. Built on the crest of a ridge, it is so placed that half a dozen battlefields where Canadians fought can be seen from a point beside the cross of white Syracuse limestone in the centre of the cemetery.

One side of the cross, on either side of which is a crusader's sword, faces toward Agira, the other towards Regalbuto. Beyond Agira is Leonforte and beyond Regalbuto is Aderno, all scenes of Canadian engagements.

SHRINE TO MEMORY

Construction of the cemetery was decided upon by army authorities soon after the Canadians came out of action in Sicily. Bodies of soldiers buried where they fell were gathered to be placed in graves near the shrine erected to their memory.

The memorial was designed by Capt. G. H. MacDonald of the Royal Canadian Engineers, a veteran miner and construction man whose wife lives in Winnipeg.

Capt. MacDonald chose a white limestone, soft when quarried but becoming hard as marble when exposed to air.

The crusader's swords are engraved on bas relief on either side of the 15-foot cross set on a pedestal or marble which is to be inset with an inscription yet to be prepared.

Stone posts to carry a wire fence are erected around the burial plot. Canadian pine trees are planted inside the fence. A path leading up the side of the hill to the memorial is lined with cedars and gravel paths with concrete curbing to divide the cemetery into four plots. Geraniums which blossom the year round and pansies which grow wild will be planted around the plots.

Crosses of wood will be used to mark the graves until the end of the war when headstones will be erected after the cemetery has been taken over by the Imperial Graves Commission.

King's Brother Is Named Gov.-Gen. Of Australia

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—The Duke of Gloucester, 43-year-old brother of the King, will become Governor-General of Australia next July, it was announced today from Buckingham Palace.

The King approved the appointment of his tall, soldierly brother to succeed Lord Gowrie, whose term was scheduled to expire Jan. 22, 1944. The term, however, had been extended six months when the Duke of Kent, the King's youngest brother who had been nominated to the post, was killed in an airplane crash in August, 1942.

AIDE TO KING

The Duke of Gloucester, who gave up an army career after the abdication of Edward VIII but returned to the army at the outbreak of the war, has been serving as the King's personal aide de camp and until recently as chief liaison officer to general headquarters at the home forces. Death of the Duke of Kent necessitated some curtailment of his army activities.

Australia is familiar country to the Duke. He toured there in 1943 on the occasion of Victoria's centenary celebrations. He has visited other parts of the empire, too, but his acquaintance with Canada is limited, although he made a brief stay in the Dominion in 1929. It was then that he suffered a fractured collarbone when his mount fell during a polo match at Vancouver June 4, 1929.

The Duke married the former Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas-Scott Nov. 6, 1935. They have one son, Prince Henry, born Dec. 18, 1941.

LIAISON OFFICER

Appointed chief liaison officer to the British field forces Sept. 6, 1939, he took up his appointment in France soon after. During May, 1940, when the German advance swept all before it, he suffered cuts caused by a bomb explosion on the Belgium front May 21. The next night he emerged unscathed from the cellar of a French hotel which had been hit by two bombs and a short time later helped get out messages to general headquarters, working at an improvised desk while a burning truck lighted the street.

Later in 1940, he barely escaped bomb injury during a Nazi raid on Britain.

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 16—(CP)—Appointment of the Duke of Gloucester as Australia's next governor general was welcomed today. The Sydney Morning Herald commented editorially:

"King George has honored Australia by designating his younger brother, the Duke of Gloucester, to represent him in the Commonwealth. For the first time a brother of the reigning king will become governor general of the Dominion and the significance of this development will not be lost upon the outside world.

"Nor will it be overlooked that an Australian labor ministry, despite traditional party predelictions for a native-born appointee, should have sponsored the proposal for a royal vice-regent. These are signs of the times of peril and great stress in which the peoples of the British Commonwealth of Nations have instinctively drawn still closer together."

Egyptian Monarch Is Accident Victim

CAIRO, Nov. 16.—(AP)—King Farouk I of Egypt suffered a slight pelvic injury yesterday when his automobile collided with a truck on the Ismalia road, along a bank of the Suez anal.

The 23-year-old monarch was treated at a British army hospital.

Canada Is Seen At Vital Stage Of Development

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Stephen King-H ll, Independent-National member of parliament, returned to Britain after a visit to Canada with the impression that there are few countries at a more "interesting and significant stage of historical development" than the Dominion.

"A glance at a polar map shows the geographic importance of Canada in the coming air age," he said in an article in the Sunday Observer. "The political significance of Canada as a catalyst in British-American relations at the present time is obvious. Last, but by no means least, there is the future of Canadian industry."

BALANCED ECONOMY

Canadians no longer think of themselves as wheat growers dependent upon a single crop, he said, but look forward to a balanced economy in which new forms of industry will play a large and proper part.

"But . . . the rich mineral deposits, the oil, the base and precious metals and the roaring waterfalls and rushing rivers whose energies can be turned into millions of kilowatts, need manpower and especially skilled manpower," he continued, "without a rapid increase of population these bounties of nature cannot be exploited for the benefit of mankind and the Canadian people in particular."

V

He believed that Canada would have to look to central Europe for increased manpower and expressed the hope that Britain would be such a good place to live in after the war that few Britons would want to migrate.

Truck Driver Hits His Boss

SASKATOON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Marvin S. Aarons, owner of a Saskatoon dry cleaning firm, set out in his coupe Saturday night to find and give instructions to his truck driver, Steve Nahirney, who was busy making deliveries. He found Steve and then started for his office.

At Fourth avenue and Twenty-Sixth street his coupe came into collision with a Ford truck. The driver of the truck started to swear at the man who had hit him and then suddenly realized he was swearing at his boss.

"And," Aarons told a reporter, "there was one policeman questioning me and another policeman questioning Steve and I had to answer for both. Now, is Steve going to charge me with the $75 damages or am I going to charge the damages against the truck, which I own? Am I going to charge damages against Marvin S. Aarons or against Marvin's Limited, which is it? But I am glad it was myself I hit. Good morning, Mr. Reporter."

State of Chaos Reported Throughout North Italy

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS

ON THE GERMAN-SWISS FRONTIER, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Chaos exists in Northern Italy where the Germans have failed in their efforts to conscript Italians as both soldiers and workers, a foreign diplomat who left there Sunday said yesterday.

At the same time new stories of harsh repressive measures used by the Nazis against increasing sabotage and guerilla resistance came out of France, and from Germany new accounts of Nazi measures to stiffen their hold on the home front were reported.

A Swiss telegraph agency dispatch said four French partisans had been shot by Nazi authorities in the Toulouse area in retaliation for large-scale terrorizing of collaborationists, of whom 24 were killed in the past 10 days.

The diplomat who just returned from Northern Italy said trains carrying Italians marked for labor in Germany frequently were stopped between stations, the conscripts fleeing to isolated hideouts.

This informant said German defences in Northern Italy are excellent. Second string troops guard neutral frontiers, but in the south and in the Po Valley crack divisions are stationed.

A new burst of shootings and sabotage caused the authorities to extend to Monza, Sesto and San Goveanni the state of siege ordered in Milan last week.

Seek Mayoralty

SASKATOON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—J. S. Mills, Moose Jaw normal school teacher, formerly of Saskatoon was nominated for the mayoralty contest in Saskatoon yesterday along with R. M. Pinder, M.L.A., for Saskatoon and Angus McPherson, Saskatchewan Motor Club branch manager.

Moose Jaw Mayor Gets Acclamation

MOOSE JAW, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Mayor J. W. Gorman, K.C., was re elected by acclamation for his fifth consecutive term as chief magistrate of the city when nominations for the Nov. 22 civic election closed yesterday. It is the first occasion in municipal history in Saskatchewan where the mayor of city has been accorded five consecutive terms. He was first elected in 1939.

There are eight candidates for the six seats on the city council: O. B. Fysh; D. H. R. Heming, for re-election; W. H. Johnstone, for re-election; George N. Lockwood; James C. MacDonald; J. Fraser McClellan, for re-election; W. Ross Thatcher for re-election; Robert West, for re-election.

Nominations for public school trustee brought five candidates for the four vacancies and for collegiate trustee six candidates for the three vacancies.

For St. Agnes public school trustees four candidates were nominated to the four vacancies and acclamations were declared.

Benito Mussolini Fails to Appear As Per Schedule

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(CP)—Benito Mussolini, who was scheduled to make his first public appearance yesterday since his "rescue" by the Nazi more than two months ago, apparently remained in seclusion. THE OPENING AT CLARKSON OF CANADA'S NEWEST, MOST MODERN OIL REFINERY

TO HELP speed the war effort and particularly to further the great Commonwealth Air Training Plan, British American Oil has opened a new refinery at Clarkson, Ont. This refinery will manufacture aviation gasolene, aviation and industrial lubricants, fuels and waxes—products designed for today's war and tomorrow's peace.

Realized through close cooperation with the Canadian government, the Clarkson project was designed to speed to the utmost the production of essential sinews of Victory — to ensure a continuous supply of such vital material — to stand ready to play a major role in the development of Canada's post-war petroleum products industry.

Never Again

Whatever may be the basis of settlement, the wage or other conditions established in Alberta coal mines should be as permanent as they can be made. There must not be another tie-up in wartime; nor another stoppage of production on the eve of winter either in war time or peace time.

Nothing less than terms promising continuous operation "for the duration" will be good enough, nor will the public get justice unless there is assurance that the coal supply will not again be at risk at the season when cold weather may be expected to drop down across the prairies any day or night.

Western people have had one narrow escape from widespread suffering, and no doubt from death in some instances. Once is enough to run such a risk. Contracts can be made and regulations adjusted in spring or summer as well as when winter threatens. By whatever steps are necessary, both operators and miners should be required to do their negotiating well in advance of cold weather, so that the consequences of failure to reach an agreement in the eleventh hour are too terrible to contemplate.

If this involves higher-priced coal or bonused-coal during the warm months, when the demand is slack, the compensation would be an insignificant supply at the time when coal makes the difference between comfort and hardship—in some cases between life and death.

V

The Breach Is Complete

The Russian break-through at Zhitomir has completely severed the southern one-third and the northern two-thirds of the enemy's badly disarranged line. Between these segments there is now no railway communication.

The advance Red forces there are within two or three days of the old Polish border, at the average rate to which they have been moving. They are as near to the headwaters of the Bug, and in position to flank this possible Nazi defence line. And they are little farther from the railway which runs from Odessa north-westward into Poland and it is the only remaining escape rail route for the Hitlerites in the Dnieper big bend and in the Crimea.

The capture of Zhitomir, important in itself, is more important because of the strategically placed jumping-off point thus gained by the Russians from which to roll their offensive westward or southward at will. Berlin completed the stage-setting for a debacle by announcing that a new Russian column a half-million strong had been thrown into the fighting around Krivoi Rog.

Moscow does not claim, and there is no evidence from other quarters, that the enemy retreat has developed into a rout. Hitler's generals are evidently conducting their salvage withdrawal as resolutely as Rommel handled his long retreat in Africa. They are making a terrific demand on the discipline and endurance of their troops, who must know that they are fighting a losing battle, with death or internment the probable outcome.

V

Predictions Are "Out"

Prime Minister King has denied the obviously ridiculous report that he predicted an end of the war "any day" or soon. It is scarcely likely that anyone took the report seriously, for it was directly contrary to Mr. King's consistently expressed view that victory is still a long way off, and contrary also to any factual survey of the situation as it stands. If anyone did accept the report as other than the product of misunderstanding or misrepresentation, he knows better now.

The Allied leaders are unanimous, and have been unanimous, in discouraging expectations that the enemy will collapse at an early date. Those who entertain such anticipations can find nothing to support them in statements by Mr. King, Mr. Churchill, Mr. Roosevelt, or Mr. Stalin. They will find in these statements only emphatic warnings against the danger of assuming that we have yet won the war, or just about won it, or got far enough on the road to victory that the time of arrival can be foreseen.

It is of course true that Berlin may surrender unconditionally tomorrow. But it is not at all likely to do so, nor for many days after tomorrow. The Axis has lost driving power, but it has not lost the power to resist. For defensive purposes Germany is stronger now than it was in November 1918, and the party which controls Germany has more cause to dread vengeance at the hands of its victims. It will not give up until it can no longer fight.

V

Looking Ahead

Foreign correspondents at Ankara say the impression is growing there that Turkey will enter the war within three months. It has been strengthened apparently by the visit of Mr. Anthony Eden and his talks with Turkish officials.

The correspondents do not think it necessary to say on which side Turkey will fight if it does step into the fray. A year ago that was subject to doubt, and two years ago Von Papen was supposed to be the ring-master in the diplomatic circle at Ankara. But that was only supposition. The Turk has always been master in his own house, never more so than when he was most obsequious.

The change from a sultanate to a republic did not erase the skill, change the object, or greatly affect the methods of Turkish strategy. The line of least resistance is still the preferred road—but it leads now as always to the ultimate profit of Turkey.

The far-sighted gentlemen at Ankara have kept on friendly terms with both sides in the present war, but they have never been at friendly to one as to invite hostility from the other. They have bought from both and sold to both, but always without violation of agreements—which they have made with both—and always to commercial advantage.

The trend of the war, however, is making force-sitting difficult and dangerous—and there are no more sagacious readers of the signs of the time than those who direct the policy of Turkey. Russian forces are driving to the south-west—and Russia has always wanted an outlet on the Mediterranean. It may seem to the watchmen at Ankara that safety lies in lining up with the Allies and thus being treated as one of them when the time arrives to redraw the map of south-eastern Europe.

Maximum prices which may be charged or paid for fuelwood have been announced in Manitoba. That is one reaction from the coal strike in Alberta. It indicates the seriousness of the situation in the central province. Heating with wood must be costly in the cold weather even in normal times. That official action had to be taken to keep down the price can only mean that the cost was becoming prohibitive.

V

Swedish reports say German officers in Denmark have been ordered to prepare for "chemical warfare" because the Allies might retaliate with gas when the Nazi "secret weapon" is turned loose. If the report is correct it means that Hitler has decided to try gas as his last desperate resort, for he knows the Allies will never employ that weapon unless he does so first. And, to give a bad man his due, he has as yet refrained from giving the lead—unless on the Russian front, and the charges made there do not appear to have been officially pressed.

Italy Is War's Most Vexatious Political Problem

Control of Regency Is Goal of All Parties Now

By HAROLD L. WEIR

A wave of press criticism in London of the slowness of the Allied advance in Italy lends sinister point to the promise of Marshal Badoglio to resign from the Italian premiership as soon as Rome is taken.

One might read into this promise a doubt in Badoglio's mind whether that capture will be soon or not. There is almost a suspicion of a taunt in it.

Coupled with the outspoken dissatisfaction in England over the progress of the march on Rome, this remark could very well contain a clumsy attempt to be subtle.

Harold L. Weir

And certainly the campaign does not augur well along side the military prodigies currently performed by the Russians.

There are doubtless good tactical reasons for the delay. But whatever those reasons may be, the apparent bog-down is seriously complicating the situation in Italy—particularly since Badoglio is making it an excuse to hang on to power and prolong the ineffectual reign of Victor Emmanuel.

Savoys

The present plan appears to be to make Victor Emmanuel's grandson king under a regency. The pretence is that both Vicor Emmanuel and his son Humbert are too deeply steeped in fascism to function at the head of an anti-fascist regime.

One would suppose that the cleanest way to get rid of a dynasty that has proved so weakly culpable as the House of Savoy would be to throw the whole business overboard.

The House of Savoy has never been notable. It is much less distinguished than most of the English ducal houses. Nevertheless, it was the best that offered when the Italian kingdom was established less than eighty years ago.

At that time nobody was particularly enthusiastic about it. But the Savoys bribed and wangled their way into the job.

Since they have failed so miserably and since there is no other Italian royal house worth speaking of, one should imagine that the sensible thing to do would be to chuck out the monarchy and try some other form of government.

There are two very good reasons why this course will not be followed, unless as a last resort.

Regency

The first reason is that the regency offers the controlling political party an excellent chance to assume more than parliamentary power. The regency is the joker in the present situation. Whoever controls the regency will wield royal power as well as parliamentary authority. If the monarchy were abolished, this little extra handful of prestige would vanish.

For there is no doubt that, although there is no Italian tradition of a united Italy since the days of the Roman Empire, there is a very powerful tradition of royalty.

Since the fall of the Roman Empire, Italy has been governed very largely as a group of tyrannies, a collection of states under the control of absolute dukes and princes. That is the sort of government to which the Italians, traditionally, are accustomed.

It would be a very great asset, then, to any new aggregation of political masters to keep in their own hands a remnant of royal power.

That is why the Italian politicians, as much as they hate the House of Savoy, will press the unitarianism" little attention has been given to the role played in Nazism and imperial history by the German navy.

The German army always had a more limited imperialism than the navy. Army pan-Germanism counted the German settlements in Europe in its sphere of influence and was always prepared to wage preventive wars against the rise of any military power equal to itself on the continent.

The navy, however, was Pan-German in the sense of the "All-Deutsche Verband" and was for the union of all Germans from the Balkans to Brazil. It fostered revolutionary imperialist nationalism through internal and external propaganda organizations, in an effort to bring pressures for appropriations on the Reichstag which, in the old days was not always amenable.

There were two psychological reasons for the German navy's virulent Pan-Germanism. It had a double inferiority complex toward the army, always more popular with the people, representing in their minds, the defense of the homeland, and, toward the British with their command of the seven seas. At home, in both Kaiserreich and Weimar Republic, the popular tendency was to regard the navy as a luxury. The navy sought to overcome this by pleading necessity and promising grandiose opportunities.

Dorothy Thompson

The Swedish report is correct. It is most interesting that in this inner secret party conference, no Army general was represented.

During the lifetime of the Weimar Republic and the Third Reich, both army and navy staffs did methodical attention to analyzing the circumstances of the collapse in 1918. The Nazis created small but fanatic and "reliable" bodies in the armed forces. But their difficulties with the army became greater, for the army is a cross section of the whole people, numbering millions, whereas the navy remained small and elite. Although there have been Norwegian reports of unrest in the navy, we may therefore assume that, on the whole, the navy is the more thoroughly Nazified of the two forces.

The imperialist line, from Grand Admiral Tirpitz to Grand Admiral Doenitz has never been interrupted. At a time when the German army was conservative, the navy was a conspiratorial instrument for the Nazis. After the last war officers of the imperial navy went into the merchant marine, and when Hitler came in were active in espionage and Nazi propaganda work through commercial agencies all over the world.

Out of their midst came the chief of German espionage, Admiral Canaris, who was a notorious conspirator against the Weimar Republic.

So, in this meeting, there were three persons of conspiratorial experience who control a world-wide service: Goebbels, who has had correspondents and affiliations everywhere; Himmler, whose Gestapo espionage also covers the world; and Admiral Doenitz, Doenitz, incidentally, is a Hitler

Last Words of Woodrow Wilson

Confident His Principles Of World Accord Would Prevail

By RAYMOND CLAPPER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(By Mail)—Armistice day 20 years ago was clouded for me in Washington as it is now outside my window.

I have always remembered the story I covered that day for the United Press. The war had been over five years. Woodrow Wilson had become a broken old man, living in seclusion at his home on S street and what he said that day has come true, it seems to me, although you may not agree.

Raymond Clapper

One cold very sad for him. Remember the times, if you can. By then Harding had been President and had died. Coolidge was in office and was feeling rather pleased—as he said at the time—because rigid economy had brought our expenditures within our income, and he hoped as we all believed, that we were on the threshold of a new era.

☆ ☆ ☆

Yes, one felt that the times had moved far beyond Wilson. Harding had said the League of Nations was dead. It had been a rather fanciful dream of a college professor who did not know his way around in the practical world.

Democratic politicians felt it was not good politics to be publicly associated any longer with the Wilson dream. The following summer there was to be a strange scene in the Democratic National convention in Madison Square Garden.

A tremendous scene, too—Newton Baker, faithful to Wilson, standing before that convention of steel heads, tears on his face and in some eyes in the press section, pleading with the Democrats not to betray the spirit of Woodrow Wilson.

Pardon an old reporter's memories. I wander too much.

That armistice Sunday of 1923 was gray and the faithful followers of Wilson were a bedraggled crowd in the street in front of the house on S street. They went there every Armistice day and knelt down to pray in the street.

It always was a fairly good human interest story. Nobody very prominent in the crowd, of course. Mostly fifth avenue sentimentalists, cranks, and not very realistic people. Most of them were women, probably many of them mothers mourning for a son with silent grief that would never pass. They were bound to grow misty over a broken idealist like Woodrow Wilson.

I think there was a minister in the crowd and, as I remember it, he said a prayer.

Then somebody went up and knocked on the door and in a few minutes Wilson came out on the stoop.

I have a photograph of him as he came out of the door and I stood about 10 feet away. He dragged himself through the 10 feet with some difficulty, for since his illness in the White House years earlier he had not been able to move about freely. He leaned on a heavy cane. he had changed much since I had seen him last and especially since the day when he strode confidently down the centre aisle of the senate bringing the huge text of the Treaty of Versailles under his arm to ask for its ratification.

His hair was all white and hung in a fringe over his neck. But he wore his silk hat and a long cloak and pulled himself together for a dignified appearance.

☆ ☆ ☆

Wilson lived only three months after that. The feeble man had difficulty in responding to the greeting of his admirers. After a few words of thanks he choked and apologized for his emotion.

Then for a few seconds he fired up and spoke like an implacable prophet out of the old testament.

I looked up his words today in a yellowed copy of the World Almanac. They still vibrate and now I can hear them plainly:

"Just one word more. I cannot refrain from saying it: I am not one of those that have the least anxiety about the triumph of the principles I have stood for. I have seen fools resist Providence before and I have seen their destruction, as will come upon these again—utter destruction and contempt. That we shall prevail is as sure as that God reigns".

Those, I believe, are the last public words Woodrow Wilson ever spoke.

The other grinned broadly.

"That'll be a miracle," he said. "I've got a ferret in there."

Canada's New Refugee Policy

To Become Sanctuary for Oppressed and Beaten Europeans

By GRANT DEXTER

OTTAWA.—The announcement on November 2, by Hon. T. A. Crerar that Canada is to give a sanctuary forthwith to a substantial number of European refugees marks a definite change in government policy.

In the past, the government, although under criticism, has never admitted that this country has failed in the role of the Good Samaritan. The nearest approach to admission of this kind came from Mr. King in the House of Commons on July 9 when he said that while Canada had not done all "we could and should have done", the record was better than was generally thought.

Mr. King said that upwards of 10,000 refugees had been admitted to Canada for certain but that the 1941 immigration movement of 39,000 people between 1933 and 1942 was "mostly refugees". Moreover, he included as refugees visitors as the 8,000 women and children who came here from Britain at the time of the blitz. He included the relatives of several of the British internees who were transferred to this country in 1940.

The weakness in Mr. King's argument was that the refugee immigrants were not refugees at all in the true sense of the word. They were admitted under the immigration act and in every case were able to satisfy the authorities that they would not become a public charge. Many of them brought capital with them and not a few have established valuable industries here.

A reading of Mr. King's statement leaves the impression that he was far from satisfied with this country's attitude to refugees and there is reason to believe that this mood was shared by many of his colleagues. In July, Mr. King discussed in detail the international machinery then being set up to deal with the refugees and he pledged Canada's co-operation in advance.

This background is important because Mr. Crerar's announcement makes it clear that the government has not waited for the new international machinery to begin to function. As a direct contribution in aid of refugees, the government has decided to accept a substantial number of those now in Portugal and Spain. No estimate has been given but it is understood that the selection will be on the family and the individual basis and that the total will not exceed 1,000 persons. In addition to this contribution to the problem, Canada will do her full part as a supporter of the International Committee. Nobody knows how many refugees there are in Portugal and Spain but judging by Swedish estimates as are available, this initial contribution will go some way to easing the problem.

In one importane reapect, the new policy was facilitated by the decisions reached at the Bermuda and Quebec conferences; decisions which have since been confirmed by the international refugee committee. The decisions are that refugees are a wartime problem; that the final solution is to return the refugees to their own countries and that the immediate need is not for permanent settlement but for sanctuary.

The great difficulty at Ottawa in the past has been that the immigration act does not contemplate admissions of this kind. The refugees landed on the Great Lakes have entered Canada in earlier years, did so as immigrants and not as refugees. They are permanently domiciled here.

But Mr. Crerar's announcement reveals that a new category of entry has now been established. Refugees can now find sanctuary in this country for the duration of the war. When the war is over they will automatically become liable to loss of Canadian domicile and deportation. If the plans laid down by the international refugee committee, they will be expected to return to their own countries.

There is now reason to hope that the refugee problem, to the extent that it is susceptible of solution, will now be solved.

To begin with there is now an international organization whose job is devising ways and means of succoring such refugees as can be reached. This organization stems directly from the international conference that met at the Evian conference in 1939. The Evian committee ceased to function at the outbreak of the war and for over three years nothing was done in the international field. The Bermuda conference, comprising representatives of the United States and the United Kingdom, met in the spring of 1943 and recommended that the Evian committee be revived, enlarged and reorganized. This was done and the new international committee met in the last few months has made proposals to the 49 governments that might be expected to contribute to the solution of the refugee problem. These proposals have been widely accepted and are being acted upon.

But it must be remembered that only a small part of the refugees of Europe have escaped from the hands of their German tormentors. And of those who have escaped, only a part have reached territory to which the United Nations have access. There are large numbers of refugees in Sweden and Switzerland. They cannot be reached yet. The refugees in Portugal and Spain and in the middle east can be reached and for all immediate purposes, these constitute the refugee problem. Mr. Crerar's announcement is evidence to prove that Canada is now willing to play her full part in caring for them.

Ships

CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

Everyone who lives within sight of the waters of the Great Lakes knows that there have been a lot of new ships of various types launched on the Great Lakes in within recent months. It was just 269 years ago this week that the Great Lakes had its first launching of anything larger than an Indian canoe.

It was on August 7, 1679, and that first ship was the ill-fated Griffon. First sailing ship to ply the Great Lakes, the Griffon was launched under direction of La Salle, and launched just above Niagara Falls. She carried La Salle and Father Hennepin to Washington Island in Green Bay, whence they proceeded to the Illinois country.

The Griffon was left in command of a sailor named Luc, who was to take on a cargo of furs and sell them in the East to satisfy La Salle's creditors. But the Griffon never reached port. La Salle apparently believed that Luc betrayed him, scuttled the ship and stole the furs. But there seems to be grounds for believing that the Griffon was caught in a storm and sank with all hands.

The Forty-Six Candles of Dr. Goebbels

Part Played by German Navy in History of Reich

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

A small despatch from Stockholm on Monday reports, from the Berlin correspondent of a Swedish newspaper, that the forty-sixth birthday of Goebbels was celebrated by a party attended by Gestapo Chief Himmler, Munitions Chief Speer, and by Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz. The occasion was less mentioned in the German press. The correspondent thinks the meeting was to form a political bloc, to deal with any eventualities, and states that Doenitz is a Nazi, and Himmler dependent on Speer for arming his S.S.

Dorothy Thompson

In all the talk about "Prussian militarism" little attention has been given to the role played in Nazism and imperial history by the German navy.

The German army always had a more limited imperialism than the navy. Army pan-Germanism counted the German settlements in Europe in its sphere of influence and was always prepared to wage preventive wars against the rise of any military power equal to itself on the continent.

The navy, however, was Pan-German in the sense of the "All-Deutsche Verband" and was for the union of all Germans from the Balkans to Brazil. It fostered revolutionary imperialist nationalism through internal and external propaganda organizations, in an effort to bring pressures for appropriations on the Reichstag which, in the old days was not always amenable.

There were two psychological reasons for the German navy's virulent Pan-Germanism. It had a double inferiority complex toward the army, always more popular with the people, representing in their minds, the defense of the homeland, and, toward the British with their command of the seven seas. At home, in both Kaiserreich and Weimar Republic, the popular tendency was to regard the navy as a luxury. The navy sought to overcome this by pleading necessity and promising grandiose opportunities.

The Swedish report is correct. It is most interesting that in this inner secret party conference, no Army general was represented.

During the lifetime of the Weimar Republic and the Third Reich, both army and navy staffs did methodical attention to analyzing the circumstances of the collapse in 1918. The Nazis created small but fanatic and "reliable" bodies in the armed forces. But their difficulties with the army became greater, for the army is a cross section of the whole people, numbering millions, whereas the navy remained small and elite. Although there have been Norwegian reports of unrest in the navy, we may therefore assume that, on the whole, the navy is the more thoroughly Nazified of the two forces.

The imperialist line, from Grand Admiral Tirpitz to Grand Admiral Doenitz has never been interrupted. At a time when the German army was conservative, the navy was a conspiratorial instrument for the Nazis. After the last war officers of the imperial navy went into the merchant marine, and when Hitler came in were active in espionage and Nazi propaganda work through commercial agencies all over the world.

Out of their midst came the chief of German espionage, Admiral Canaris, who was a notorious conspirator against the Weimar Republic.

So, in this meeting, there were three persons of conspiratorial experience who control a world-wide service: Goebbels, who has had correspondents and affiliations everywhere; Himmler, whose Gestapo espionage also covers the world; and Admiral Doenitz. Doenitz, incidentally, is a Hitler admiral, who had left the navy and was re-introduced by the Nazis, reorganized the U-boat plans and brought in as captains and commanders only very young, adventurous Nazi fanatics, and who was rapidly promoted to head of the navy.

In the moment when a large part of the German people contemplate the possibility of German defeat, what other subject could these gentlemen have been discussing over their wine? They must have spoken about how to exploit world-wide connections for their own survival, for the survival of other Nazi leaders, and for the underground continuation of Nazi activities after a lost war.

The presence of the munitions minister, Albert Speer, is also significant. The technique of controlling a defeated Germany with reliable personalities into key positions. Disposal of munitions is certainly a key position, for the munitions ministry is dictator over the whole of German industry, which will one day be converted to peace-time activities, when it may be too late to see that important jobs are held by members of the conspiracy. So it is one of the key positions in case of civil war.

From now on we should consider Nazi activities as not merely conditioned with the prosecution of the war or the maintenance of the home front. The leaders are old conspirators, and for them these are short-view considerations. They also know that after such a war as this, releasing explosive forces, the struggle for power is not merely a German matter. The Nazi ideology, to survive, must continue to be propagated in the world and be tied together to camouflaged groups inside Germany.

A combination of propagandists everywhere, well-disguised, of a trained spy apparatus, of seemingly harmless commercial agents, and of well-established inside Germany would be the perfect solution.

District News in Brief

A. L. Urch Heads Curling Group

ROCKY MOUNTAN HOUSE—A. L. Urch was elected president of the local curling club at an annual meeting held last week. Other officers elected were: Vice-president, E. Murgatroyd; secretary-treasurer, Roy Charlton; draw secretary, Walter Martz; ice committee, Harold Killick and E. Lindsay. The meeting decided there would be no more afternoon curling, and the women will be charged more fees and given three nights a week instead of two.

A few big game hunters are in the district. Most of them are regular hunters who come here every fall and have a few shells left over from last year. Though the game is plentiful hunting is not so good this year. The woods are noisy with so many sawmilles operating and trucks hauling lumber on all the trails.

The warm weather also is a drawback as the animals are staying up in the mountains whereas they are usually driven down by the cold weather by this time of year.

All the schools in Rocky Mountain House are now open. At Crimson Lake, where there are very few pupils correspondence lessons will be given this year. The extra grant of $100 that the government is allowing teachers who will go to isolated scnools has proved an inducement.

Miss Ruby Walker, deaconess in the Presbyterian church here for the last year, has been appointed to Sarnia, Ont. She will visit her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. J. Walker at Lloydminster on her way east. No deaconess has yet been appointed to take her place.

The I.O.D.E. held a telephone bridge Thursday evening with 20 tables in play around town. Miss M. Kirby and Mrs. H. Coole were in charge and prizes went to Mrs. W. H. Schierholtz, Mrs. D. Ardill, Constable R. A. McMullen and Mrs. Eric Whidden.

Mrs. A. Parsons was elected president of the local branch of the British and Foreign Bible society at an annual meeting held last week. Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Rev. R. K. Peck; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. S. A. Durnford; collectors, for the town, Mrs. W. Paskall, Mrs. E. Day, Mrs. T. H. Bucknall, Mrs. Parsons, Mr. Peck and Miss Mary Ross; for the Arbutus district Mrs. A. Phillips and Havelock Sloan.

Brothers Break Arms During Fall

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE—In a freak accident the two young sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Leslie both broke their right arm below the elbow. The boys, Leonard and Billy, were riding together on a horse, when the animal slipped and threw them off. Each boy broke his right arm when he fell. The boys have been riding together on a horse to and from school for many years.

Elect Officials At Lloydminster

LLOYDMINSTER— Members of Lloydminster civic administration, whose term of office had expired, were all returned to office by acclamation at the nomination meeting held Monday morning.

Dr. G. L. Cook was returned as mayor for his fourth successive term. Sidney Waller Holl, James A. McBride and Hugh A. Ellis were returned to the council.

Francis R. Wade and Stephen S. Hall were returned for public school trustees, and Harry C. Messum and Dr. A. B. Cooke to the high school.

Gleaned From Rural News

CORONATION—H. S. Northwood was elected honorary president and Walter Sharplin was elected president of the Coronation Curling Club at a re-organization meeting last week. Other officers elected were: E. G. Chalmer, r.i.vice-president; S. W. Manning; executive, G. A. Wallace, W. Zinger, and D. Beeching. T. McGlim, Charles Cook and W. Sharplin were elected to the membership committee.

The Rev. Father Dillon edited the Coronation Review this week while the editor Art Jenson was ill with the flu.

The Literary Society of the intermediate school voted unanimously to use 50 per cent of its Christmas tree fund to send cigarettes to men overseas.

SYLVAN LAKE—Veterans of the last war, air cadets, girl guides, brownies, and members of the I.O.D.E. paraded to the Cenotaph Thursday afternoon under the leadership of Major Lister from Red Deer.

Dr. Ian McSween pastor of the Sylvan Lake Memorial Presbyterian church led the devotional services and Major Lister gave an address. Bugler Charles Palmer of Sylvan Lake was in attendance.

CLYDE—Veterans and local boys home on leave paraded Nov. 11 from the Canadian Legion hall to the Cenotaph where services were held in honor of those who died in the last war. George McLachlan, R.A.A.F. and president of the legion, and Mrs. Coles placed wreaths on the memorial. . . . Alvin Nelson, Tim Davis and Rod Miechel are home on leave.

HARDISTY—Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Miller, Rosyth, have announced the engagement of their daughter Edith Elizabeth to Roy C. Marler of Bremner. The wedding will take place in Edmonton Nov. 16. . . . Mrs. Ing. Johnsrud suffered a severe shock from an electric light switch in her home Wednesday evening. . . . Abel Peterson and Harry Shelton are building extra rooms on their respective homes. . . . District Magistrate E. Jones has been in Hardisty presiding over a court in which 23 prosecutions were made against unlicensed radio owners. The accused all pleaded guilty and paid a total of $195 in fines.

John Beange and C. Wilson of Ontario were week-end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kendricks.

William Wagec Jr. has returned from Dawson Creek. . . . Mrs. Sullivan and daughter Dorothy are moving to Dawson Creek where Mrs. Sullivan's mother Mrs. R. Mills resides. . . . Local Red Cross branch is making an appeal for more workers for work rooms Friday afternoons. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jarvis are moving into the Kitchen house this week. . . . On Sunday evening W. C. Harris died in an Edmonton hospital. . . . H. P. Christianson, old timer of this district died at Saratoga, Cal., recently.

While skating Sunday Glen MacPherson tripped and fell injuring his head. . . . J. Marshall one of the local butchers has closed his business here and moved to Lougheed.

FERINTOSH—Church of the Nazarene held a Remembrance Day service with the Not Forgotten Club and the Central Valley Comfort Clubs as guests, Thursday evening Nov. 11. Special music was provided by a trio from the Church of God. The service was conducted by the Rev. R. Robinson, pastor of the Ferintosh Church of the Nazarene and the Rev. David Fredlund from the Higland Park Swedish Mission Church.

RED DEER — Remembrance Day services here arranged by the Red Deer Post of the Canadian Legion were largely attended. A number of platoons of soldiers were on parade from A-20 Canadian Army Service Corps Training Centre, led by the A-20 band; members of the Canadian Legion were present under command of President John Drever; local reserve units were represented and the Girl Guides were out in force. Major R. C. Lister, M.C., Red Deer, delivered a brief address. For the march past of the veterans Major Lister took the salute at the Cenotaph. A large number of wreaths were placed on the Cenotaph on behalf of individuals and organizations.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. Joseph Cole, a resident of this district for more than 50 years who died Sunday. She was 96 years old. Rev. A. S. Wood, of Leonard Gaetz Memorial Church, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. D. Whyte Smith, Didsbury, a former pastor. Pallbearers were J. H. Comfort, J. R. Reynolds, E. Thompson, H. Russell, O. W. Thorne and T. A. Gaetz.

Mrs. Cole was born at Bradley's Corners, Ont., on July 16, 1848, and was married to Joseph Cole in 1875. Mr. Cole came to this district in 1890, his wife and family coming the next year. After farming east of the city for some years they moved into town in 1903 and they had been the family home since. Mr. Cole died in 1922. There are two daughters, Miss Mina Cole, with whom Mrs. Cole made her home, and Mrs. W. J. McLean, also of Red Deer, and one son, A. J. Cole, of Fawcett, Alberta.

MUNDARE — One hundred and thirty-two dollars was cleared by the Red Cross committee of Mundare district at a dance held Thursday, Nov. 11 in the Mundare National hall. The young people of the district contributed to the success of the dance. . . . The Mundare fire in the chimney of an exhaust caused a fire in the Mundare mill Saturday afternoon. The fire was quickly extinguished with chemicals and damage did not exceed $25.

VERMILION—J. W. G. Morrison was elected honorary president and J. Beresford, president of the Vermilion Curling Club at the annual meeting Friday. Other officers elected were: vice-president William McLaughlin, chaplain the Rev. Father O'Sullivan, secretary-treasurer, H. R. Parker. Twenty skips were elected for the coming season. C. E. Thompson, Reeve of Ethelwyn Municipality and N. McGillan, Reeve of Vermilion Valley are attending the Municipal Convention in Calgary. They are also delegates to the hospital convention immediately following.

The new concrete tank for soft water was reported completed and $900 ordered paid on the contract at a meeting of the Vermilion Hospital Board Saturday. Accounts passed amounted to $2,500.

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

Allied planes have been swarming over northern France attacking military objectives. Whirlwinds have attacked the Isle of Guernsey in the English channel, which is located on the accompanying map. R.A.F. Typhoons have swooped down on the Lezardieux estuary in Brittany, which also is located on the map, and attacked enemy shipping there. U.S. medium bombers raided a drome at Chievres, 30 miles southwest of Brussels. If the Allies were contemplating an invasion attack on Brittany or Normandy, they might well seize the Channel islands as a preliminary.

With Those In Uniform

CORONATION — AW1 L. M. O'How, R.C.A.F. (W.D.) Macleod, spent the week-end at the home of her parents here. . . . M. L. McColl enlisted in the Canadian active army recently. . . . Word has been received here that PO. W. M. Constable has arrived safely overseas. . . Capt. M. Akhurst, M.D. of Vancouver is visiting her sister Mrs. M. R. Butterfield.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE — James Lindow of the merchant marine service is in hospital in Durban, South Africa, according to word received by his parents Mr. and Mrs. H. Lindow. He is suffering a broken leg. Mr. and Mrs. Lindow have four sons on active service and a son-in-law. Their daughter Mabel recently was graduated from the C.W.A.C. training school at Camrose.

Sgt. Pilot Mac Anderson has been reported missing according to word received by his parents Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Anderson. Sgt. Anderson went to England in the summer of this year and was receiving training there. On a flight his plane became lost and signalled for help. A rescue plane found an empty dinghy and no trace of the plane.

Besides his parents Sgt. Anderson's wife and one sister live here. Another brother Norman is also in the air force.

LLOYDMINSTER — The Lloydminster Flight of Air Cadets are still going strong despite the fact that they have lost 13 of the original squadron of 41 who took training last year. Of these 13, three have joined the R.C.A.F., one is in the navy and one in the army, while three are attending university where they have become members of the university Air Training Corps.

Over half the squadron attended the cadet summer camp at North Battleford. There have been 17 new enrolments for the commencement of this year's training.

The secretary of the Lloydminster branch of the Canadian Legion has recently received a large number of acknowledgments from the boys and girls overseas for cigarettes sent by the local legion.

The local branch has 23 members serving in the forces and 41 sons and daughters of members.

Annual Meeting Alberta Board Set For Dec. 3rd

"Post-War Rehabilitation," the subject of an address to be delivered by E. J. Martin, M.L.A., chairman of the sub-committee on public works of the Alberta post war reconstruction committee, has been allotted a prominent place on the agenda of the annual meeting of the Alberta Board of Trade and Agriculture, which opens in Red Deer on Friday morning, Dec. 3.

The program of the council of adult education is another feature of interest more particularly to the smaller communities. This will be dealt with by C. H. Grant, K.C., who represents the Alberta Board on the educational council.

One of the several resolutions to be discussed is one from the Leduc Board of Trade respecting school holidays.

Member units that are expected to send delegates include the following Boards of Trade: Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge, Drumheller, Bentley, Camrose, Calsor, Donalda, Edson, Hanna, Lacombe, Leduc, Red Deer, Rimbey, Sterling, Olds, Rocky Mountain House, Vegreville, Vermilion, Wetaskiwin, Grande Prairie, Delburne, Carstairs, Coronation.

BOARD OFFICERS

Officers of the Alberta Board are: President, J. B. Holden, Vegreville; first vice-president, C. F. Moyer, K.C., Drumheller; second vice-president, C. MacMillan, Lethbridge; third vice-president, C. F. Pals, Castor; counsel, C. H. Grant, K.C., Edmonton; hon. treasurer, L. V. Cairns, K.C., Edmonton.

Council, H. S. Trame, Lacombe; W. T. Hill, Lethbridge; E. S. Hogg, Red Deer; J. Weber, Edmonton; W. H. Tesky, Rocky Mountain House; R. H. Settle, Edmonton; K. I. Morrison, Calgary.

Secretary, J. Fitzallen, Vegreville.

Executive Dies

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16. — (CP) — Dr. Henry J. Meiklejohn, 84, former life insurance executive, died here Saturday. He was a native of Rawdon Township, Ontario.

My Day

BY ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON — Today in the east room of the White House we received a very charming occasion. The representatives of 44 nations sat around a long table with the president of the United States. Behind them were their flags, brilliantly lit by the lights of the crystal chandeliers and the photographers' and news reels' lamps.

I watched each man go up to represent his country and thought how interesting it was that, before the end of the war, we have the vision this time to realize that there is much work to do and preparation by the peoples of the United Nations is necessary.

Some of us had slipped into the east room to look at the pageant of colors before any delegates arrived. One of the White house guards remarked, "This is wonderful. I only hope that we will stay together this time after the war and not repeat what we did before."

I think the mere fact that this meeting is being held, is a promise that we shall not repeat our past mistakes. It also shows clearly that the governments know that this must be a joint undertaking. There, in that room, 80 per cent of the population of the world was represented but I could not help thinking that the people who are really going to make the United Nations relief and rehabilitation agreement a success of a failure, will soon have to be brought into the picture.

Every nation which has not suffered to the point of destitution during the war, must set itself to work now to save to lay up huge stocks of food, clothing and machinery for the future. This means that innumerable people will have to conserve food, materials and machinery. It will have to be done by people as individuals in every nation, but particularly by those nations where bombs have never fallen.

Almost always it is women who are the members of the family who have to start to make these savings possible. They have to remind their men of the extra care that has to be taken of this and that.

In this country we have never been very careful of our machinery. The life of many a machine could be lengthened on the farm in the home and in the factory. The time has come for us to think a bit, because what we are having can not begin when the war ends.

It must begin immediately, because the results of the savings must be in the hands of UNRRA as each new area is liberated by our united military effort. This is really a call and challenge to the women in the fortunate countries, from their unfortunate sisters who have suffered so much in the past few years. In this country we can only answer for ourselves, but I hope our answer will be generous.

Vast Supplies Reaching Southwest Pacific Front

By LEWIS HAWKINS

LONDON, Nov. 16. — (AP) — The United States navy, after overcoming the greatest transportation and handling problems ever presented in any war, now is pouring supplies into the southwest Pacific on a scale large enough to support a major offensive against the Japanese, Rear-Admiral William Brent Young disclosed yesterday.

The chief of the navy bureau of supplies, who recently completed a 24,000-mile inspection tour, told a press conference that in the last six months practically 100 per cent of supplies sent were getting through to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters.

To illustrate the complexity of the supply problem, he said that so far as supply was concerned "we have 34 fronts" all over the world to which literally millions of different items must be delivered.

Admiral Young praised highly Australian and New Zealand reverse lend-lease co-operation which he said was "absolutely 100 per cent," and had done much to simplify the staggering supply problem.

In addition to providing port facilities of all kinds, plus labor, they actually have created new industries to meet special American needs, he said, such as plants to bone and freeze beef, to make candy bars, and even built a factory to make sauerkraut, "which they never heard of" before.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean
SPORTS EDITOR

DOUBTLESS there will be quite a gathering of basketball citizenry at Westglen gym tonight for in addition to the curtain raiser between Bechtel, Price, Callahan and North West Division the league schedule calls for the initial clash between two very fine "A" section clubs, both unbeaten—Yanks and U.S. Army Engineers, last year's champions.

Yanks have two wins to their credit and the Engineers disposed of Latter Day Saints in their only start so far. From the standpoint of rivalry too the game appears to be a natural—Air Force vs. Engineers.

Both teams will be at full strength, Pvt. Paul Blawi scored 27 points for Yanks in their two games. Lt. Joe Long counted 22, Cpl. Wayne Adams 18, Lt. W. T. Dawson 12, Cpl. Manuel Dorsky 6 and WO. M. Milner 5. In the Engineers' only appearance John Gullekson chalked up 22 points, Cpl. Harley Miller collected 9, Pvt. Earl Ayers 5, Pvt. Bob Chamness 4 and Pfc. "Windy" Smith 2.

COACHING STAFF COMPLETE

WITH the securing of Jimmy Anderson to handle the midgets, the Canadian Athletic Club coaching staff is now complete, Bill Green and Joe Brown having charge of the juveniles and juniors respectively.

The club is fortunate in being able to secure the services of Anderson for their midgets. In addition to being a hard worker and possessed of considerable fire, Jimmy also has had plenty of experience to serve him as a guide.

He was with the Junior Rangers here in 1933-34 and the next season went with the Superiors, which club after winning the Alberta title was eliminated by North Battleford Beavers in the western Allan Cup semi-finals in the spring of '35.

ANDERSON-PURCELL-GROVE

IN the fall of 1935 Anderson joined the Dominions and he played with that club for three years. He was with Edmonton Eskimos in the Alberta Senior League in 1938-39. The first string for the Dominions was Anderson, centre; Andrews (Shorts) Purcell on right wing, with L. A. (Lefty) Grove on the left boards.

Luscar Indians won the Alberta title in 1936, but the Dominions came through the following year only to be ousted from the western semi-finals by North Battleford. It may be recalled that the Beavers then knocked out Fort William, but lost in the cup final to Sudbury Tigers.

And just by way of a refresher here is the lineup for the Dominions for 1937-38:

The roster of the Edmonton Eskimos for 1938-39 was as follows:

Plan Bantam League Again

Jimmy Anderson to Coach Canadian A. Club Midgets

CANADIAN ATHLETIC CLUB officials last night announced that Jimmy Anderson, former centre for the senior Superiors and Dominions will act as coach for midget hockey during the coming season.

The appointment of Bill Green and Joe Brown as coaches for junior and juniors, respectively, was announced a considerable time ago.

Plans have also been completed by the Canadian Athletic club to again operate a bantam league and this year it will consist of either four of six teams and will be under the supervision of Clarence Moher.

Anderson, new mentor for the Canadian midgets, after playing as junior joined the Edmonton Superiors for the 1934-35 season. His club that year reached the western semi-final in the Allan cup playdowns.

For the next two seasons Anderson was with the Edmonton Dominions and that club also got as far as the western semi-final in the playdowns in 1937. Jimmy was out of hockey for a time but got back two years ago as a defenceman with Wetaskiwin Colonels. He did not play last winter but was active in Community hockey in the Highlands.

Now that the coaching problems have been satisfactorily arranged, the Canadian Athletic club is looking forward to another successful season and officials are all set for the opening of the city rinks.

Ralph Blackmer is president of the club and Smythe Fleming and W. (Bill) Gray are the vice-presidents, Gordon Campbell is secretary and Ken Henry director of hockey. Club directors are Leo Pelletier, Geoff. Fox, Ken Henry, Herb Webb and Clarence Moher.

The leather in a pair of men's oxfords would make an officer's pistol holster.

Coach

Jimmy Anderson, former Edmonton junior hockey player and later with the senior Superiors and Dominions was last night named coach of the Canadian Athletic Club midgets.

Canadian Boxer Scores Knockout

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Winfield Shanks, 155-pound "Canadian Whirlwind" from Montreal, completely outclassed Ernie Adkins, 150, of Youngstown, Ohio, in a boxing bout here Monday night, knocking him out in 2:20 of the second round after downing him once in the first and six times in the second.

Flyers Club Follows Montreal Army in Withdrawing From Quebec League

Cornwall Army Team Quits Senior Hockey

Losing Eleven Players Due To Postings

CORNWALL, Ont., Nov. 16. — (CP) — Officials of Cornwall Flyers' hockey club Monday announced withdrawal of the Army team from the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

"There was no point in attempting to continue to operate when faced with the wholesale loss of their players," an official of the club said after it was learned unofficially that 11 of the players who have carried Cornwall's colors so far will be moved from the army training centre here before the end of the week.

The team was scheduled to play Montreal Royals here tonight.

The league, which originally started as a six-team grouping, has now been reduced to four and it was rumored here that Montreal Royals also might withdraw.

PRESIDENT ASSERTS FOUR WILL OPERATE

MONTREAL, Nov. 16.—(CP)—George M. Slater, president of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, said here late last night that four teams will remain in the circuit, following earlier reports that a third club would have to discontinue operations.

The Cornwall Army team notified Secretary Jimmy Foley last night that "due to military regulations we are compelled to withdraw" from the Q.S.H.L.

An earlier report said that unless Montreal Royals could find some new talent they also would drop from the league, but Mr. Slater's statement was interpreted by hockey officials here that Royals team will remain in the league.

Originally, the league was a six-team circuit, but Montreal Army dropped out last week because of a shortage of players.

GAME CANCELLED EARLIER IN DAY

MONTREAL, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Secretary Jimmy Foley of the Quebec Senior Hockey League said early Monday he had received verbal notification from Cornwall that the Cornwall Army team was withdrawing from the league and would not meet Montreal Royals at Cornwall tonight.

Foley said he expected written confirmation from Cornwall and that in the meantime the Cornwall-Royals game had been cancelled.

His announcement came a short time after an official of the Canadian Army Athletic Service said that Royals would have to withdraw from the league unless additional players were obtained.

They're Playing Hockey Because It's Their Right

MONTREAL, Nov. 16.—No apologies are necessary for the appearance of any young Canadian in the uniform of a National Hockey League team, declares James P. Fitzgerald, dean of Canadian sports writers, sports editor of The Toronto Telegram, and a veteran of Great War I, in which he served with distinction.

Penning a striking defence, if any were required, for professional hockey players, he wrote:

"It is presumed that there is nobody left in hockey who is a fit and proper subject for the armed services. But with army drafts, selective service functioning and all, anybody playing hockey may be regarded as doing so just because he can serve as good a purpose in hockey as anywhere else in the set-up.

"This column is no apologist for any slacker from the armed services but just because a lad is playing hockey is no reason to brand him as dodging military duties. The war authorities in fact take care that he doesn't. A hockey player's just a citizen the same as anybody else, is asking for no different treatment than his counterpart working in an office, but he is entitled to the same consideration, no more and no less, whether at the hands of the draft board or the public at large. And it is no secret that the said public is a much more severe critic, mainly because he does not know the facts of the case, than the military authorities who are familiar with them all. Not everybody can make the army. Some of these players have tried and failed, others are too young to even present themselves. Let's be fair.

"One thing may be taken for granted — anybody in a professional hockey uniform is either unfit, or too old, or too young to be in the fighting forces. Last season there were deferments for good and sufficient reasons, such as in the case of students, but they were not permitted to leave Canada for games in the United States. Presumable there will be some like that this season."

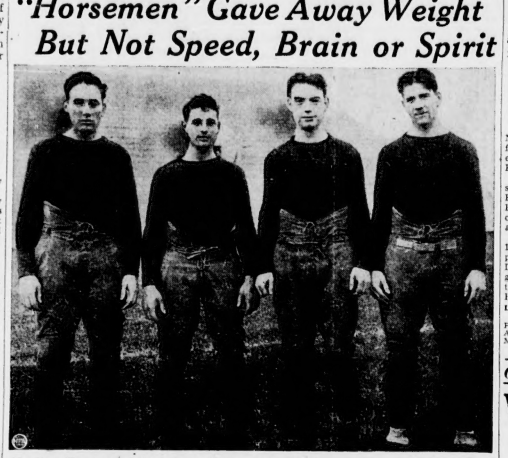

Figure Skating

MONTREAL, Nov. 14.—(CP)—Canadian figure skating championships, including the revived women's senior championships, will be staged at Ottawa's Minto club, Jan. 28 and 29, it was announced Monday following the annual meeting of the Canadian Figure Skating Association here Saturday.

George M. Patterson of Montreal was re-elected president of the association.

Knute Rockne's Masterpiece

"Horsemen" Gave Away Weight But Not Speed, Brain or Spirit

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The Four Horsemen — and Seven Mules—of Notre Dame were the smartest and most colorful team in modern football, the masterpiece of Knute Rockne.

The Four Horsemen—Harry Stuhldreher, Jim Crowley, Elmer Layden and Don Miller—played together for the first time as a unit against Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh in November, 1922, but did not come into their own until 1924, when N.D. won the undisputed national championship by beating Army, Princeton and Carnegie Tech in the east; Northwestern and Nebraska in the midwest; Georgia Tech in the south, and Stanford on the Pacific coast.

Fittingly, the Four Horsemen and Seven Mules came to the end of the trail in the Pasadena Rose Bowl, the only Notre Dame varsity to have appeared.

HORSEMEN GOOD ACTORS

The Four Horsemen and Seven Mules always gave away weight—10 to 15 pounds to the man—but never did they concede speed, brain or spirit.

Stuhldreher never weighed as much as 155 pounds and Jimmy Crowley, Layden and Miller came in around 168. Not a man in the line scaled 185.

But let Francis Wallace tell you about the Four Horsemen. The noted author was a student at Notre Dame when they were freshmen, doubled as the Irish sports publicity man, followed their fortunes closely. Only Rockne knew more about them.

This was the formula, Wallace explains. Miller went off left tackle, Crowley off right tackle, Layden through the middle. Stuhldreher did most of the passing, although either Crowley or Layden was likely to pass. Layden kicked out 60 yards from behind his own goal line against Stanford.

PLAYS STARTED ALIKE

The deception of the system in those days of the free shift was such that every play started alike, and the quartet hid their intentions like polished actors. They were fast off the mark and so swift that the comparatively light line had only to show the merest daylight.

Stuhldreher, Crowley, Layden and Miller were accomplished blockers, helped each other. Their speed and niftiness moved the opposing end or defensive back out just long enough to let the runner through.

With dynamite like Layden shooting at the centre, the defense could not afford to scatter to protect the flanks, where Crowley and Miller were as dangerous as the fullback was in the centre.

Crowley did not have the speed of either Layden or Miller, but he was one of those rare runners born with the instinct of elusiveness. He was snake-hipped, had a tremendously effective change of pace, stop and go.

Stuhldreher had a keen, fast brain, poise, cool contempt for the opposition. Despite his lack of weight, he was the fine blocker the Notre Dame quarterback had to be at the time. He was tough and compact, had sturdy bowlegs.

WERE SECONDARY LINE

Stuhle did most of the passing, but never projected himself into the offensive picture unless strategy demanded it. He was a clever but not a scintillating runner and a sure pass receiver.

On defense, the Four Horsemen were quick to size up plays and their speed gave them a wide range. Layden moved so quickly to the threatened point on either side of the center and was such a deadly tackler that the others could spread to protect the flanks.

It must be considered that although Unenlightened clear the way on the attack, a great defensive backfield is a secondary line, makes a line look good on defense.

In this respect the Four Horsemen fully repaid the debt they owed to their line.

Annual Banquet Dec. 8

John S. Glover Re-Elected Head Thoroughbred Society

PROMINENT in western horse breeding circles for many years, John S. Glover, of Edmonton was re-elected president of the Edmonton District Thoroughbred Society at the recent annual meeting.

Lee S. Williams, also of this city is again vice-president and J. R. (Bob) Edwards of Edmonton was re-named secretary-treasurer. The annual banquet and dance will be held in the Macdonald hotel on Wednesday, Dec. 8.

Dr. P. R. Talbot, provincial veterinarian, was again chosen as honorary director of the society, and the board of directors named at the annual meeting are as follows:

Col. F. C. Jamieson, S. Francis, William Burns, H. Luscombe, Rex Ireland, M. Ryan, L. Davidson, J. Alcock, Dr. W. A. Wilson, H. Cook, A. Chapman, Frank Matthews, Chas. L. Robinson, Vermilion: McKinley Wilson, Dewberry; W. C. Hoffman, Sedgewick; Tom Rackham, Lloydminster; W. D. Williams, Vermilion; Dr. W. H. Scott, Vermilion; F. H. Reed, Lacombe.

Report, including the financial statement read at the meeting, show the society to be in a very flourishing condition.

The organization has been in operation for several years and has taken a very active part in the encouragement of breeding better animals. At the present time the society owns three thoroughbred stallions — Campanini, Amsterdam and Mr. K.

The directors at the annual meeting authorized the purchase of another well-bred, high quality young stallion.

R.C.A.F. Stops Navy 4-2 In Winnipeg Hockey Opener

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16. — (CP) — Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers opened the Winnipeg Services Senior Hockey League here last night with a 4-2 victory over H.M.C.S. Chippawa. Pete Langelle, Paul Platz, Joe Krol and Bill Sneider scored for the airmen. Hugh Millar and Doug Lewis netted for the sailors.

Playing before a packed house of almost 5,000, the star-studded Bombers took a 2-1 lead in the first period, increased it to 3-1 in the second, and matched a goal by Navy in the third.

Langelle and Platz, both former National league players, scored the first two goals, Langelle on a solo effort and Platz on a pass from Alf Pike and Roy McBride.

Krol's goal, the only one of the second period, came on a pass from Pike. Sneider scored the other Bomber goal in the third period on a double pass from McBride and Platz.

Navy's first goal, by Lewis at 12:16 of the first period was on a pass from Joe Bell and Rimi Van Daele. Hugh Millar got the final goal of the game at 19:53 of the third period on a pass from Bill Heindl.

Washington Makes Big Jump To Become Rose Bowl Team

By JIM HUTCHESON

SEATTLE, Nov. 16.—(AP)—From the orphan's ward to the Rose Bowl—that's the long jump made by the University of Washington football team. The Rose Bowl committee's selection of the Huskies to meet Southern California in the richest of the post-season gridiron stakes, with the Pacific Coast Conference title on the line, was a reward which Washington supporters have been pulling for all along.

Washington became the orphan of the west coast football when the northern division of the conference folded on the eve of the first scheduled games. With Washington having the only navy-marine enrollment in the division, it looked too one-sided for fun—or for finances.

The Huskies rolled through their four salvaged games with 150 points to 26 to gain a powerhouse reputation on the home front. But, except for its impressive 27-7 upset of the Marine Field Fliers, Washington remains the team nobody knows.

The team, suffering an acute shortage of reserves, was built around Washington Navy-Marine holdovers and a trio of transfers from Washington state, with one freshmen and one 4-Fer thrown in.

Washington's Rose Bowl outfit won't have the punch of the team that beat the Fliers. U.S.C. lost to the Fliers after the mid-term transfer of several of its stars for officer training. Washington's abbreviated season was completed before transfers cut into the squad but they cut hard, taking the west coast's two highest scorers, fullback Pete Susick and halfback Jay Stowes. Tony Baicunas, a starting tackle, also was lost.

O.H.A. Senior

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Hamilton defeated Toronto R.C.A.F. 9-2 in a senior "A" Ontario Hockey Association game at Maple Leaf Gardens last night.

Ruffin Wins

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Bobby Ruffin, 137½, New York, knocked out Joey Bagnato, 134, Toronto, in the second round of their scheduled 10-round welding bout last night at the St. Nicholas Arena.

The scrap continued without a third man.

The fight, which took place on bare boards under a picnic pavilion, started in the afternoon while a welcome sun was shining. But rain, snow and sleet fell before Crosby could go no farther. Torches were used for lights in the closing rounds.

Them was the days.

Machinery Depot Beats St. Regis In Coast Hockey

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Nov. 16.—(CP)—Wingman Maurice Duffy scored four goals last night as Victoria Machinery Depot handed Vancouver St. Regis a 7-5 defeat in a Pacific Coast Junior Hockey League game for their first win of their two starts so far this season.

With their arrival from Victoria delayed when their boat was late and difficulty encountered in getting to New Westminster through the lower mainland's worst fog of the season, the Victoria team was more than an hour late in getting to the arena where only a handful of spectators awaited.

But the Victorians made up for lost time once they got started, Duffy's opening goal gave them a lead in the first period and the wingman and Dutch Evers scored both in the second. Duffy got two more for V.M.D., in the third and Evers and Red Sutherland scored the other Victoria goals.

Jack Smith scored two for St. Regis and the others went to Ralph Bithe, Ed. Trites and Red Sutherland.

Clear $18,000

CINCINNATI, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A profit of $18,000 was made this year by the Cincinnati Baseball Club, operators of the Cincinnati Reds, it was reported Sunday at the annual meeting of officers and directors. This compares with a loss of $599 in 1942.

Frank Crosby Was Forgotten Famous Fighter

NEW YORK, Nov. 16. — Final rites for Frank Crosby, held at Alton, Ill., were mentioned in only a very few metropolitan newspapers. Crosby was another forgotten famous fighter.

Crosby was a principal in the longest fight to end in a knockout under Marquis of Queensbury rules. It went into the 77th three-minute round, lasted more than five hours with the warriors belaboring one another for nearly four. The winner was Harry Sharpe, still active in the insurance business in St. Louis. The men were lightweights and the match, for $500 a side, took place at Nameoki, Ill., Feb. 5, 1893.

Sharpe and Crosby outlasted the referee, one Willie Green, who quit in the 65th round on account of exhaustion, so there must have been considerable pulling and tugging.

Strafaci Is Now Teacher

Golf Near Fighting Fronts Explained by Former Champ

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—A letter from T-Sgt. Frank Strafaci to the United States Golf Association gives you an idea of how the Royal and Ancient is played on the far-flung battle fronts.

Technical Sergeant Strafaci, former National Public Links, North and South and Metropolitan Amateur champion, has become a popular teacher at a post in the South Pacific.

"The indoor driving net is coming along swell," writes Digger Strafaci, signing his letter with the Australian appellation. "I've given 50 lessons, 150 fellows have visited the place the past month. Five nights a week I sit a few feet away from the mat and watch the fellows seek the ball. Great satisfaction beams on their happy faces whenever they hit a solid shot. The time they spend at the place equipped by the American Red Cross is time they don't waste thinking about this filthy war.

"Down here one learns the true meaning of the word amateur—in golf or anything else. The more one is an amateur the better he gets along, the better he feels. Give and you shall receive. Not money, but something priceless. You receive the happy thought that you gave without expecting anything. When you receive kind words like 'Thanks a lot, I certainly enjoyed myself and appreciate it a great deal—it was lots of fun,' and, knowing it to be true—well, a million dollars couldn't make you feel more repaid.

ENJOYED MATCH

"I've never enjoyed a golf match as much as I did one between Army and Navy teams which I ran. Eight matches were played and only one was a rout.

"Of the 16 players I knew only four, had to rely on the honesty of the others. I asked each player what he could score, matched soldier against sailor, accordingly. Of the 12 I didn't know, three shot their given scores, six shot within two shots, two within four and one who said he could shoot 90 was 92 for nine. The Army was 4½ to 3½.

"The lowest score was 79, the highest 127; in fact, only three broke 100.

"I didn't play, was lucky to come out alive. After all, I was the handicapper for both sides. But there was not one dispute.

"There were two players to one set of clubs, six clubs to a set.

ANOTHER CHALLENGE

"The Navy challenged us again. All scores were kept, with the idea of running a monthly tournament.

"Of 30 balls I gave out I got 28, which is a miracle. The balls were the last of 197 sent me by the American Red Cross. Every time I gave one out I was offered money, once as much as a pound. I told them the U.S.G.A. was responsible for the balls."

Strafaci is sending the U.S.G.A. balls that were used for golf, says golfers won't believe it when they see them.

"Lt. Larry Opalka of Detroit, who played in the Public Links in 1930-34, will play with us against an Australian team," he continues. "I hope to get eight players for the match. Major Mulcahy, who heads the Australian team, told me the only thing that would prevent it was the scarcity of balls. He was happy when I assured him I still had a few.

"The Aussies won't have the best players in Australia and so it will be with us, but the match will bring us a bit closer together and all will have a grand time."

The United States Golf Association, 73 East 57th Street, New York, 22, N.Y., will be glad to receive and forward donations of balls and other equipment for T-Sgt. Frank Strafaci and other service men overseas.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By CHARLIE EDWARDS

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Hubbub over the Army's hockey policy, forcing withdrawal of army hockey teams in Regina, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax, is dying down. Some criticism continues, with one of the chief arguments based on the fact the navy and air force have not curtailed hockey. Just for the record, present indications are that the army will have seven teams in senior leagues this season, navy will have four and air force six.

SANTA McCAFFREY

Lloyd (Montreal Star) McGowan says the best story on the whole army break-up concerned Jim McCaffrey, the big chief of Ottawa Commandos, the two Laprades and Phat Perras. "It seems that Jim's nose was in the wind as usually 10 days ago. He knew which way it blew and offered Edgar Laprade and Remi to the Montreal Army as infantrymen along with Perras, the goalkeeper." The Laprades and Perras now are at Camp Borden.

INCIDENTALLY

Now that Toronto Army Daggers have folded, exodus of the name players has begun. Syl Apps and Billy Taylor figure to be at Simcoe for a few months. . . . It is learned now that Daggers had planned to use Neil Colville, Jack Portland and Terry Reardon for the O.H.A. campaign. All three were at Camp Borden. . . . Reg Hamilton, for years a Toronto Leafs defenceman has been rejected by the army because of the spinal injury which has kept him on the sport shelf. It's doubtful he'll recover sufficiently to play hockey this season.

ROUND AND ABOUT

There's likely to be a big post-war boom in rink-building. Peterborough has joined the Ontario cities planning for new auditoriums. . . . A couple of former Winnipeg hockey stars, Joe Rivers and Cam Shewan, have arrived in England with the forces. . . . Mac Colville, coaching Red Deer Army hockey team, has deserted the forward line for a defence post. . . . Note to N.H.L. clubs: Harold (Tiger) Mitchell, goalie for Regina Army hockey team last winter, has been discharged from the army on physical grounds.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Although results followed form with amazing consistency, the week-end college football show was one of the goofiest in gridiron history—such a hodgepodge of absurdity and brilliance that belly-laughs vied with cheers.

A review of the eccentric extravaganza brings on a brain-storm of breakish finishes, spectacular runs, heroic waterboys, one-man teams, missing officials, automatic safeties, police clearing the field, and alumni murdering their alma mater.

The Nany's zenith was attained at Columbus, O., in the Ohio State-Illinois game. The players went to their dressing rooms, thinking that the contest had ended in a 26-26 tie. They were pulled out of the showers and sent back onto the field 10 minutes later to finish the game. Ohio state had one more play, the officials ruled, because of an off-side penalty against Illinois on the last regulation play.

So, John Stungis kicked a 16-yard field goal to give Ohio State a 29-26 victory.

GOAL POSTS TORE DOWN

AT New York, officials had to call on soldier police to clear the field at Fordham stadium when Brooklyn college rooters tore down the goal posts, with two minutes of play remaining in the game with city police. Brooklyn won 19-6.

Officials also were in a dither at State College, Pa., when two officials had failed to arrive at game time for the Temple-Penn state encounter. Finally, a Philadelphia sports writer and a high school coach were drafted to fill in. An automobile accident had caused the delay in arrival.

As Texas rolled to its 46-7 victory over Texas Christian, the winners glamorized their water boy, little Billy Andrews by letting him come into the game and kick two points after touchdowns. He felt almost as heroic as J. R. Callahan of Texas who threw two touchdown passes and scored twice on line plunges.

BADGERS' EIGHTH LOSS

ALMA MATER took a terrific whomping at Ann Arbor, Mich., when Michigan's Wolverines, assisted by 10 former Wisconsin players, crushed Wisconsin, 27-0, for the Badgers' eighth defeat in nine starts.

At Philadelphia and West Point, spectators witnessed the rarity of teams attempting to pass from their own end zones. Pennsylvania attempted the risky pass in its 9-6 defeat by North Carolina. The ball was batted down behind the goal line, resulting in a safety and two points for N.C. likewise Sampson tried it against Army in the fourth quarter, with the score tied 7-7. Joe Woitkoski's pass was partially blocked and failed to get out of the end zone, giving Army two points.

In the North Carolina-Penn game, Bob Odell's 50-yard touchdown run was called back, and Penn was penalized five yards for a backfield man in motion likewise, in Colgate's 26-0 victory over R.P.I., Mike Semak intercepted a Colgate pass and galloped 70 yards over the goal stripe; but he was called back for a holding penalty.

Eddie Prokop of Georgia Tech must be using the new bomb sight. He completed 11 passes as the Engineers downed Tulane, 33-0.

$26,000 Is Paid For Yearling Bull

WAUKESHA, Wis., Nov. 16.—(AP)—One of the highest prices on record in recent years was paid yesterday at the United States National Blue Ribbon Holstein Sale when a yearling bull, Carnation Madcap Supreme, was bought for $26,000 by the Curtiss Candy Company for its farm at Libertyville, Ill. The bull calf was consigned to the sale by the Carnation milk farm near Seattle, Wash.

Sports . . . . Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16. — (AP) — Pigskin Post Mortem: . . . It probably was the grand climax of an unusual season last Saturday when Texas U. actually sent in the water boy—four-foot, 11-inch Billy Andrews—to kick a couple of extra points against Texas Christian University. . . . Up to last week there field as you might expect in a season when some players turned up on two or three different teams through Navy transfers, when players at a college like Columbia with stars of All-American calibre right handy, but ineligible, in the Navy midshipman's school roamed the campus asking any husky looking individuals they saw to come out for football and when at least one coach announced he'd give up only when he couldn't get eleven players out and had to keep his word. . . . hadn't been as many oddities on the

SOME OF SATURDAY'S STRANGE HAPPENINGS

North Carolina and Army scored all-important points when their opponents forward-pass attempts from behind the goal line were grounded in the end zone for safeties. . . . Penn State had to recruit officials from the stands for its game with Tenne when the men assigned were late in arriving. . . . And Ohio State's players had to be called back from the dressing room to kick the field goal that game them a 29-26 decision over Illinois, that incidentally, was the first field goal in big competition this season.

HIGHER AUTHORITY:

When some asked Greasy Neale, coach of the Phil-Pitt Steagles why he never ran on the field to dispute decisions like the other pro coaches, Neal replied: "I'd like to, but I've been ordered to remain on the sidelines. . . . The surprised questioner asked where such orders came from . . . Greasy looked said and replied: "My wife."

Sailor?

CALGARY, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Eddie Wares, who assisted Detroit Red Wings in winning the Stanley cup last spring, announced Monday that he intended enlisting with the navy at the H.M.C.S. Tecumseh in this city, and if successful in passing his medical, would likely be a teammate of Sweeney Schriner, former Toronto Leafs star, on Marty Burke's navy club, in the Alberta Service Senior Hockey League this winter. Wares started his hockey career in Calgary, turned pro with Philadelphia Ramblers in 1935-36, and went to the Red Wings in 1937-38.

DETROIT, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, of the National Hockey league, announced Monday the recall of Left Wing Carl (Winky) Smith from Indianapolis of the American league to replace Johnny Sherf, former University of Michigan captain, who is unavailable for a game Thursday against the Rangers at New York.

Smith will play on Detroit's second line with Joe Carveth and Bill Quackenbush.

Former Football Player Violates U.S. Draft Law

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A man who participated in the Sicilian invasion and later was torpedoed was sentenced to five years in prison Monday—as a draft law violator.

Henry Edgar McCone, 23, husky star of the 1940 Swarthmore College football team, pleaded no contest to a charge of failing to appear for induction. McCone, who served on a merchant marine vessel in the Sicily invasion, said he had conscientious objections to service with the "armed forces."

Judge George A. Welsh said he was "sorry" to impose sentence but that the courts have no authority to interfere with selective service classifications made by draft boards. McCone, classified 1-A, the noncombatant class, sought a 4-E, or objectors' classification. He said he was willing to return to the merchant marine.

Winnipeg Bombers Begin Practices For Grid Play-Off

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16. — (CP) — Coach Reg. Threlfall and his Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers last night began a complete overhaul of attack and defensive systems in preparation for their Canadian championship grid battle with either Hamilton Wildcats or Labatt R.C.A.F. Nov. 27 in Toronto.

Threlfall, who gave his charges a three-day breather after they had defeated Regina All-Services Roughriders for the western title last Thursday, said at a workout, "we're starting over right from the beginning of the plays and plans we used this season and trying to get everything in high gear for the big game."

No definite date has been set for the team's departure for Toronto. Reports circulating in the Bomber camp state it may leave Nov. 25, arriving there the day of the game.

Threlfall said the club would not accept Uno Saturday's eastern final between Hamilton and Lachine. In former years the Winnipeg coach has favored this practice.

Six Appointed To High Posts In Air Force

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—R.C.A.F. headquarters today announced six appointments to high posts in the air force at home and overseas and the retirement of three other officers.

The appointments:

1—Air Vice-Marshal N. R. Anderson, 50, native of Walkerton, Ont., and present air member for air staff directing operations on the home war establishment, becomes deputy to Air Marshal L. S. Breadner when the chief of air staff takes over his new post as air officer commanding-in-chief overseas.

2—Air Vice-Marshal Wilfred Curtis, 50, native of Havelock, Ont., and present deputy officer commanding-in-chief overseas, returns to Canada to replace Air Vice-Marshal Anderson.

3—Air Vice-Marshal Frank McGill, 39, native of Montreal and present air officer commanding No. 1 Air Training Command at Toronto, becomes air member for organization, succeeding Air Vice-Marshal A. T. N. Cowley, 55, Winnipeg.

4—Air Vice-Marshal Cowley succeeds Air Vice-Marshal McGill at No. 1 A.T.C.

5—Air Vice-Marshal J. L. E. A. de Niverville, 46, Montreal, present air officer commanding No. 3 air training command at Montreal, becomes air member for training, filling a vacancy created by the recently-announced appointment of Air Vice-Marshal Robert Leckie as chief of air staff, succeeding Air Marshal Breadner.

6—Group Capt. Adhlard Raymond, Montreal, present commanding officer of No. 2 service flying training school at nearby Uplands, becomes commander of No. 3 training command with rank of air commodore, succeeding Air Vice-Marshal de Niverville.

"All of the changes will have been accomplished by the first of the year," said the R.C.A.F. announcement.

The retirements:

1—Air Vice-Marshal G. M. Croil, 58, native of Milwaukee, Wis., inspector general of the R.C.A.F.

2—Air Vice-Marshal A. E. Godfrey, 53, Killarnee, Man., and Vancouver, deputy inspector-general for Eastern Canada.

3—Air Vice-Marshal A. A. L. Cuffe, 48, native of Ireland, deputy inspector-general for Western Canada.

In the air force statement Air Minister Power said that with the "end of the development and expansion stage of the air training plan and the home war establishment," the "need for constant inspection has disappeared.

"Inspections will continue to be carried on (a) by commands and (b) whenever considered necessary in specific cases by officers specially designated by the minister," said the statement. "The director-general of economy, Air Vice-Marshal A. B. Shearer, will normally be designated."

Crude Oil For Refinery

Berthed in the shelter of the company dock which extends third of a mile out into Lake Ontario, the Britamoco, one of five B-A. lake tankers, pumps her precious cargo of crude oil into storage tanks of the new aviation gasoline and lubricating oil refinery of the British American Oil Company, Limited, at Clarkson, Ont.

Freed Nations To Have Rights Of Government

By C. R. BLACKBURN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—(CP)—Complete freedom of liberated European countries to select the governments of their choice when military operations permit was the underlying doctrine of agreements reached at the Moscow conference, Cordell Hull, United States secretary of state, told correspondents here yesterday.

He said the talks were most successful and the agreements reached of greatest importance. The way appeared open for valuable and sustained co-operation looking toward the attainment of victory and the establishment and maintenance of peace.

TO MAKE REPORT

Thursday Hull will make a report to a combined meeting of both houses of congress. It was announced after the press conference.

Hull, answering a number of questions, said:

1—There were no "secret agreements" reached at Moscow, but many decisions were reached quickly, unhesitatingly and unanimously.

2. One underlying doctrine agreed upon was that all liberated countries of Europe be given the untrammelled opportunity to set up the governments of their choice.

3. All had agreed that the time had come when, without interfering with successful prosecution of the war, work should go forward on the principles of international co-operation without which there would be utter confusion at a later stage.

4. Russia will send an economic expert to Washington to work with United States and other government experts on a scheme of monetary stabilization.

EXPECTS SUPPORT

5. He believed the Moscow declarations would command the support of the vast majority of soundthinking Americans and might achieve his goal of obtaining a common, non-partisan attitude which would take United States foreign policy out of politics.

6. The London council set up at Moscow will deal with questions arising at the termination of hostilities and act as a clearing house for information. Gen. Charles de Gaulle's demand for French representation on the London commission will be taken up by the group itself.

7. The principles of the Atlantic Charter were not compromised at Moscow but upheld by the three powers.

8. The free Germany committee in Moscow lost any influence it might have had the moment Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov signed the four-power declaration.

British American Oil Adds Another Milestone With New, Modern Refinery at Clarkson

With the opening of Canada's newest, most modern refinery at Clarkson today British American Oil Company adds another milestone to its swift rise since its inception in 1906 to become, not only one of the most outstanding petroleum products companies of the North American continent but one of the prime aids in making possible the successful operation of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

And it all goes back to a day just after the turn of the century when the romance of the fledgeling oil business beckoned more strongly to young Albert Leroy Ellsworth than did the musty lawbooks on which he was then working. Ellsworth went to Buffalo and got himself an oil job. But, after a short time he reasoned that what could be done in New York state could be done in his native Ontario and he threw over his job to return to Canada to organize a small group of Canadians into the beginnings of what was destined to be a great company.

From this little group of forward-looking Canadians, Mr. Silas R. Parsons was chosen to be the first President of the company and Mr. Ellsworth became Secretary-Treasurer. In October 1906, the company received the charter which would permit it to engage in the manufacture and sale of petroleum products in Ontario.

This was a beginning—undertaken at a time when kerosene for lamps, and oils and greases for industry were the most important products. For the first few months, the company operated as a jobbing concern but soon, with the desire to create and maintain a high standard for British-American products, the young company purchased a three-acre site on the Toronto waterfront and set up a small refinery of its own. This step, taken in 1907, added a little more to the growing picture of British-American Oil Company, and laid the foundation for the company's cardinal principle—"No one shall offer a better product, nor give better service".

ALL-CANADIAN

The granting of the Dominion charter in 1909, established the company as All-Canadian—and British American started to grow up with Canada. As the number of automobiles gradually approached the half-million mark in 1921, and gasolene supplanted kerosene as the most important petroleum product, the company made the necessary adjustments.

World War I had presented an unprecedented demand for lubricants, and, as wars are wont to do, brought along revolutionary improvements in refining methods. B-A kept pace with the times, modernized the Toronto refinery, and trebled daily output. The original three-acre plant reached out to include some forty acres of ground.

By the close of the last war, British-American was firmly established in Ontario and Quebec—but the West was growing in importance and presenting a demand for oils and lubricants for farm machinery.

And so, our picture extends to the West, with the purchase of the Winnipeg Oil Company in December, 1920. Now B-A was going to grow up with the West. During these years, British American oil Company had depended upon purchasing and importing for its supply of crude oils, but now they were going to launch upon a program of refinery construction in the major geographical areas of the Dominion, it became evident that the only way to insure an adequate supply of the right type of raw materials was to enter the producing field of the business.

Thus, in 1924, the Toronto Pipe Line Company was organized, and in 1925, British American Oil Producing Company.

COMPANY WENT AHEAD

With eyes only for the future and the expansion of British-American Oil Company—the company went ahead, and in 1927, Mr. Parsons called on Mr. Ellsworth to be President, and himself became Chairman of the Board, so that his business abilities were still at the disposal of the company. Under the new President, the expansion program was put into effect, and in 1930, a large modern refinery was constructed at Montreal, terminus of ocean transportation. This refinery was supplied with crude by large ocean tankers which plied their way through the Atlantic from the great East Texas Oil Field. From this enormous reservoir, British American obtained its requirements—largely from its own properties.

In the same year, the fleet of five famous B-A lake tankers was purchased—and now they're a familiar sight, carrying their supplies of crude from Montreal to Clarkson, and Toronto, and transporting the finished products from Toronto to marine storage along the Great Lakes.

In 1934 a modern refinery was constructed at Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan—and, crude being supplied from the company's own wells in the Cut Bank fields of Northern Montana.

NEW POSIBILITIES

In 1936 B-A furnished the funds to enable George Bell and Bob Brown to complete a well located off the accepted geological structure in which previous wells had been naptha producers in the Turner Valley. The Hell-Brown well "came in" as a crude oil producer and opened up new possibilities for the area.

As a natural consequence of the discovery of crude oil in the Turner Valley area, plans were completed for a refinery at Calgary. This refinery was opened in 1939.

While all this was going on in the West, the Eastern half of the picture was not being neglected. In 1935 the company extended its operations to the Maritime Provinces.

With the coming of World War II there came an increased demand for the refining of lubricating oils in Canada—so B-A stepped in again. But plans were only in the blueprint stage when the government called for an increase in production of aviation fuel and lubricants to help the boys in airforce blue to "Keep 'em Flying".

B-A's reply to this newest challenge was Clarkson—redesigned and expanded to meet the demands of war.

Clarkson is the latest addition to the picture of British American Oil Company.

The picture that was in the eye of Albert Leroy Ellsworth when he embarked upon his career, is fast coming into perspective. It's a picture that will never quite reach completion, because Canada continues to grow, there will come additional challenges to the petroleum industry, and British-American, with ingenuity and foresight, will continue to keep pace with the modern world.

R. A. F. Fighters Continue Attacks On Foe Transport

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Keeping up attacks on German communications—a weak link in the Nazi war machine—R.A.F. Typhoon fighters made daylight attacks yesterday on enemy shipping and transportation in France.

The Typhoons left a tug sinking in the Seine, damaged five locomotives and shot up a radio station. Two small motor vessels heading out to sea near the northwest tip of France were set afire.

President

William Kepler Whiteford, successor to Mr. Ellsworth as president of British American Oil Company. As an engineer of unusual ability Mr. Whiteford has marched steadily up the ladder from the producing end of the business to become president of the present company earlier this year. The great Clarkson project has been brought to completion under his guidance and on his shoulders will fall the heavy task of meeting war production requirements.

Chairman

Albert Leroy Ellsworth, founder and chairman of the board of British American Oil Company, who has been a prime factor in every development of the company from its inception in 1906 to its most recent contribution to the Canadian war effort, the opening of the Clarkson refinery. This new arsenal of victory will provide high octane aviation gasoline for the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan as well as increasing quantities of Canadian-manufactured lubricating oils.

Bracken Warns Against Radical Political Trend

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask., Nov. 16—(CP)—John Bracken, National Progressive Conservative leader, said in a public address here yesterday that "The dangerous character of some of the radical leadership of today should cause us to do serious thinking."

Referring to a reported statement made by Harold Winch, British Columbia C.C.F. leader at Calgary last week, Mr. Bracken said that when coupled with "his equally revolutionary utterances" on previous occasions it helped to clarify the political scene in Canada.

Mr. Winch was reported to have told the Calgary meeting that the C.C.F., if elected, would introduce socialism and enforce it by using police and military forces to suppress those opposed to obeying the law.

DANGEROUS WORDS

Mr. Bracken said "Whether it was thoughtless expression of a radical enthusiast or the deliberate statement of considered policy, it is equally dangerous coming from a party leader."

Mr. Winch in Regina last Friday denied portions of press reports of his speech and said he had declared, in answer to a question:

("When a C.C.F. government comes into power it will be because the people have given it a mandate to institute a socialist program. The C.C.F. will immediately proceed to enact legislation in accordance with its program. If big industry and high finance refuse to obey the law, democratically placed on the statute books, then they will be in the same position as one who breaks the law today and would have to be handled as lawbreakers by the police and military forces.")

The Progressive Conservative leader asserted that progress of Canada was hedged about by two dangers—the danger of extreme radicalism and rigid reaction.

Mr. Bracken outlined his party's post-war creed, which urged stability and fair treatment for enterprise, and said the broad issue before the Canadian people as to the kind of government they desired for the post-war reconstruction period was becoming increasingly plain.

"RISK REVOLUTION"

"Are we to run the risk of reckless revolution such as the C.C.F. leader of British Columbia has in contemplation — a danger that is potential in the socialistic doctrine, however disguised by the smooth words of others among its proponents?" he asked.

"Or are we to continue to accept the reactionary regime and lack of initiative of the present administration, the consequences of which have been so evident on every side during recent years?"

He said that enterprise should be given the assurance of fair treatment, teeth should be put into controls to prevent abuses and the state should co-operate with enterprise to prevent depression.

The state and enterprise could work together to underwrite for Canada and for Canadians a threefold objective, namely full employment and maximum security without loss of freedom, said Mr. Bracken. These, he asserted, could not be achieved through private enterprise alone or by socialism alone.

Minister Denies Munitions Dept. To Reduce Staff

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Munitions Minister Howe said last night there was "no truth" in published reports here that a reduction of approximately 15 per cent in the munitions department staff was expected as a result of a survey of employees.

"Such are not the facts," said Mr. Howe. "Such reports only tend to make the situation more difficult."

Mr. Howe said there had been a reduction in past months in line with the department's policy of trimming its staff for greater efficiency but added that no dismissal or transfer or employees in the immediate future was contemplated.

Miners Idle

MANCHESTER, Eng., Nov. 16—(CP)—Nearly 10,000 miners employed at 10 Manchester Collieries, Ltd., pits are idle as the result of a week-old strike of haulage hands over a wage dispute, it was announced last night.

Close Centres

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(CP-Anet)—Netherlands recruiting offices in the United States and Canada have suspended activities and their functions will be taken over by consular offices in the two countries, it was announced here yesterday.

YOUR BANKS are more extensively regulated than any other Canadian business.

Canada's ten Chartered Banks are subject, under the Bank Act, to the most thorough-going regulation. For instance:

The annual audit—conducted by Chartered Accountants appointed by the banks' shareholders—is submitted to the Department of Finance. The Department may call for further special audits, and in addition maintains regular inspections of the banks' affairs through the Inspector-General of Banks, who is obliged by law to examine the banks' books at least once each year.

Then there are monthly returns to both the Department of Finance and to the Bank of Canada. The Minister may also call for special returns at any time.

All this in addition to the Bank Act's extensive regulations covering such phases of banking operation as reserve requirements, types of transactions permitted, interest rates and note issue.

These regulations are for the purpose of safeguarding your savings and guiding the operations of the banks as an essential element of our national life.

Trades Labor Council to Call Meeting on Legislation

Industrial Conciliation Act Amendments Subject Of Discussion by Group

A special meeting of the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council probably will be called to discuss amendments to the provincial Industrial Conciliation Act, it was announced Monday at the Trades and Labor Council meeting by Ald. Sidney Parsons, president of the council.

The question of amendments to the act came before the council when J. A. Billingsley, president, Edmonton Street Railway Men's Union, No. 569, termed the legislation "vicious and a menace to organized labor."

Alfred Farmilo, secretary of the Trades and Labor Council, intimated that the matter was under consideration by the executive of the Alberta Federation of Labor, and Ald. Parsons intimated that a special meeting of the trades council would be called to discuss possible amendments to the act.

Following representations from the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Union a special committee of three members was appointed to draft a report on the history of the strike or lockout at the King Edward hotel for submission to Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labor. It was intimated at the meeting that the Dominion department of labor was making an investigation.

A. Johnstone, Toronto, international representative of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' union, said that the Alberta act makes employees and employers arrive at an agreement as to wages and working conditions, but there are no teeth in the act, and if an employer decides to ignore agreements no penalties are provided in the legislation.

NOT INTENTION

Delegate R. Evans, civic electrical workers' union, urged that steps be taken to have amendments made in the Friendly and Benevolent Societies Act to prevent this legislation being utilized for the creation of labor unions. He said that it was never the intention of the legislature that it should be so used.

A resolution from the Medicine Hat Beverage Dispensers' Union asking that beer parlors be closed on all legal holidays was referred to the Edmonton local of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Union.

Cabinet Ministers In South Alberta

The Alberta government appeared to be in the process of "moving" south Tuesday.

Premier Ernest Manning, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, and Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health, are all in Calgary attending conventions.

Tuesday His Hon. Lt. Gov. J. C. Bowen said he was leaving Tuesday to attend the annual meeting of the Canadian Good Roads Association.

Mrs. Bowen is accompanying the lieutenant-governor and will officially open a new hostel in Calgary for the women's armed services.

Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs, is also leaving Tuesday to attend the annual association of municipal districts.

Alex Soutter, deputy minister, and T. A. Potts, inspector of the municipal affairs department, are going with Mr. Gerhart.

Hon. D. B. MacMillan, minister of agriculture, is also leaving for Calgary Tuesday.

Small Blaze

Firemen called to a 67 street residence at 8:35 p.m. Monday found their services were not required as a small blaze had been already extinguished by the owner of the place. He stated that he had been cleaning car parts with gasoline when the fluid exploded. Little damage was caused.

No. 3 "M" Depot Receives Third "E" Pennant

No. 3 "M" Depot was the scene of a colorful ceremony Monday afternoon when Air Vice Marshal G. R. Howsam, M.C., air officer commanding No. 4 training command, presented to Group Capt. R. M. Smith, commanding officer of the depot, an efficiency pennant won by the station for the quarter of the year July 1 to Sept. 30. It was the third time the station has won the award. In the above picture, left to right, are Wing Cmdr. C. G. Beveridge, Group Capt. R. M. Smith, Wing Cmdr. B. D. Kehoe and Air Vice-Marshal G. R. Howsam. The pennant is being held by Group Capt. Smith and Air Vice-Marshal Howsam. (See story on Page 15.)

Early Officer At No. 4 I.T.S. Gets New Post

One of the two remaining original officers of No. 4 Initial Training School, Squadron Leader G. Milsom, leaves the station today to take over duties as senior administrative officer and second in command at No. 2 Initial Training School, Regina.

He will be replaced by Squadron Leader A. E. Henderson, who has already arrived from No. 2 I.T.S.

Squadron Leader Milsom, whose family resides in Toronto, arrived in Edmonton on June 24, 1941, a few days before the school officially opened and has, in turn, served in nearly every important administrative position on the station during the last two and a half years. He temporarily commanded the station following the departure of Group Captain J. A. Hutchinson, O.B.E., and prior to arrival of Wing Commander E. G. Macpherson.

VARIED CAREER

Squadron Leader A. E. Hinderson, who is well known in university and athletic circles in Edmonton, has also had a varied experience in executive positions at No. 2 I.T.S.

Squadron Leaders Milsom and Henderson had previously served under Wing Commander E. G. Macpherson, commanding officer of No. 4 I.T.S., the former at No. 1 I.T.S., Toronto, and the latter at No. 2 I.T.S., Regina. Squadron Leader Milsom was guest of honor at farewell mess dinners held on the station by the officers and senior N.C.O.'s respectively.

Edmonton Airmen Arrive Overseas

A former carrier boy with The Edmonton Bulletin, Pilot Officer J. S. Thomson has arrived safely overseas, his mother, Mrs. C. Thomson, 8907 118 avenue, was informed by cable Tuesday.

Pilot Officer Thomson enlisted in Nov. 1940 for ground crew duties. Remustering for aircrew he completed a course as navigator, graduating from No. 2 A.O.S. in Edmonton.

A cablegram to Miss Marjory Coward, 11812 95 street, brought word of the safe arrival overseas of Pilot Officer B. E. Roberts of the Ryley district.

P.O. Roberts enlisted in Sept. 1942 and also graduated as a navigator from No. 2 A.O.S. in Oct., 1943.

N.A.R. Employees Buy More Bonds

Final figures of bond purchases by employees of the Northern Alberta Railways total $106,950 for an increase of 80 per cent above the total sales during the Fourth Victory Loan campaign.

In the campaign just closed, 1,197 employees purchased bonds, as compared with 704 during the previous campaign when sales totalled $56,800. The figure of $106,950 does not include $20,000 invested by the N.A.R. from the pension fund. It is exclusively the total sold to employees under the payroll savings plan.

J. M. McArthur, general manager of the N.A.R., took a personal interest in the entire campaign, and a great deal of credit for the fine results is due him. G. A. Latter was chairman.

At Convention

Alex. Soutter, deputy minister of municipal affairs, who will be one of the speakers at the annual convention of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts opening at Calgary Wednesday.

A-R-O-U-N-D THE TOWN

Members of the Edmonton Sea Cadet Corps will parade Tuesday at 19:30 hours at the Naval barracks. Rig of the day: blues.

Robert Johnson, charged before Magistrate A. L. Millar, K.C., in city police court Monday with criminal assault, was remanded for trial in the supreme court. Johnson, allegedly representing himself as a peace officer, took a woman into a house where he assaulted her.

William Carnill, manager of the local Selective Service branch, left by plane Tuesday morning for Whitehorse. On the same plane were Brig.-Gen. L. D. Worsham and Maj. H. E. Thurston. Mr. Carnill is going to Whitehorse on Western Labor Board business.

Sgt. James A. Smith, city police department, of 10966 128 street, who had been confined to his home for the last two months, was moved to hospital Monday for treatment, Chief Constable Reginald Jennings, stated Tuesday. Sgt. Smith has been in ill-health for some time.

Leaving the engine of his automobile running, George Mix, 10065 102 street, told police he returned at 1.55 p.m. Monday to find that the vehicle had been stolen. The car had been left in front of a hardware store at 100 street and 102 avenue. He described the auto as a 1931 coupe, painted black, bearing B.C. auto license No. 74-498.

The Polish Veterans' Association of Edmonton is presenting a carnival at the McCauley Community hall. The carnival is being held in aid of war relief. Half of the proceeds of the carnival will be turned over to the Canadian Red Cross, and the other half will be given in aid of Polish war relief. The carnival will be held on Nov. 16, 17 and 18, and prizes will be given away every night.

C.C.F. Planning Name Candidate At Nov. 25 Meet

"I have been notified by F. P. Galbraith, president of the Red Deer constituency association of the C.C.F. that a nominating convention will be held in Red Deer on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 25," Elmer E. Roper, provincial president of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, stated Tuesday.

"The suggestion that an acclamation should be given in a by-election to a candidate of the party which was represented by the previous member is completely unsound from the standpoint of democratic representation.

"This is proven by the fact that in the last 10 by-elections in both provincial and Dominion fields in a little over a year in Canada, nine of the candidates elected did not represent the party which previously held the seat. In seven of the nine a C.C.F. candidate was elected.

"The purpose of an election is to allow the people to make their own choice of a representative. They have shown very conclusively in the by-elections referred to that their choice may not be that made by a committee or nominating convention of the party previously holding the seat.

"As for Premier Manning's plea to save the money which a by-election will cost, that is a bit of pious poppycock. I can tell the premier how to make the Red Deer by-election a paying affair. Let him make the government's bureau of politics, the Social Credit Board, the issue in the election.

"Let the electors of Red Deer decide whether or not the taxpayers of the province should continue to be burdened with the salaries and travelling expenses of a group of publicly-paid political organizers, and their $6,000 a year speech-writer, which last year cost us $22,000. The result will be a saving each year enough to pay for two or three by-elections."

159 Women Placed In Positions Here

More than 250 women have registered for part-time employment at the local selective service office, and more than 159 part-time jobs workers got under way at the end of October. One hundred and fifty-nine of those women have been placed in jobs since Nov. 1.

Large majority of the women are housewives and the jobs they have been placed in included saleslerks, laundresses, waitresses, kitchen help, seamstresses, hairdressers and office clerks.

Employers are enthusiastic about the work these women are doing, though for most of them the jobs are something new. Every woman volunteers to work four hours a day and many of them five or six hours. Usually they work all day Saturday.

Steal Narcotics

A quantity of narcotics and currency, exact amount of which was unstated, was stolen from a Merrick Drug store, at 11528 Jasper avenue, some time Sunday night, city police were informed Monday by William Hawker, manager of the store.

4 Candidates Might Contest Red Deer Seat

With a three way fight virtually certain, and a strong possibility of four candidates being in the field, preparations for the by-election in Red Deer provincial constituency, resulting from the death of Alfred Speakman, M.L.A., were taking form Tuesday. Election is on Dec. 16.

Robert A. Andison, clerk of the legislative assembly, was busy Tuesday morning gathering up election supplies to be forwarded to Returning Officer V. E. Anderson of Innisfail.

Enumeration of the constituency will start at once.

Dec. 6 will be nomination day.

In the 1940 general election there were 53 polling divisions in the constituency.

The proclamation will be issued shortly.

AIRMEN MAY VOTE

An interesting feature of the by-election is the possibility that some members of the Royal Air Force stationed at the Penhold air training station may be eligible to vote.

Under existing statute British subjects who have been 12 months in the province are qualified to vote. As most air crew trainees conclude training courses in less than a year those who may be eligible to cast ballots will likely be administrative or maintenance personnel.

Returning Officer Anderson has announced he will make his headquarters for the election at Innisfail.

Some new polling divisions may be created as the result of the Canadian Army Training camp at Red Deer.

Cost of the election in Red Deer provincial constituency in 1940 was $2,720.

Although provincial government leaders announced the hope that expense and disturbance of an election in war-time might be avoided by all political parties allowing the seat to be filled by an Independent Party candidate by acclamation, there seems no likelihood of an acclamation.

OTHERS LIKELY

The C.C.F. will have a candidate in the field, it was announced Monday. The Labor-Progressive Party is also likely to contest the seat having already selected a candidate.

Premier Ernest Manning was absent in Calgary and no official statement on the position of the Social Credit Party in the altered circumstances could be obtained. It was hinted by some government members that the party might also enter the contest.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION:

It has been suggested in British Columbia that naturalized and Canadian-born Japanese should be settled there. Canada after the war and not repatriated to Japan. What do you think of the suggestion, and how do you feel about Italians and Germans residing here?

THE ANSWERS:

MAY DENNIS, cook: I think Germans and Italians should be kept here. If there are decent living people among the Japanese, they should stay here. All others should be deported. Japanese who committed crimes, however, should be dealt with more severely than in the cases of other people.

H. GAGNON, visitor from B.C.: Whoever suggested distributing the little brown brothers across Canada certainly didn't get many opinions on the question before he started suggesting. We have had them in B.C. for years. They hogged whole city business sections and the edge on the fishing industry, and knew more about this country than most well-informed Canadians. To send them out across Canada—which means they continue in B.C.—is something that won't go down very well.

ANNE LUCHKO, waitress: I don't think it's such a good idea to put Japanese all across Canada, and Germans and Italians belong in their own spheres—Germany and Italy. I think that all other nationalities in Canada should be made to learn how to speak English, even if they live in communities all by themselves.

Plan Employment Parley on Nov. 26

Employment for those persons physically handicapped will be discussed with employees by Alan M. Mitchell, director of employment service and unemployment insurance branch, Ottawa, when he arrives in Edmonton shortly. Mr. Mitchell is expected to hold a meeting with employers in Edmonton on Friday, Nov. 26.

A number of such meetings are being held in the west between Nov. 26 and Dec. 10 in an effort to interest various employers in physically handicapped cases and to study the types of jobs these persons can best do.

The local Selective Service office has one special section devoted entirely to placing persons who have physical handicaps and many such persons have been found suitable jobs in the city.

Visiting City

T. F. Peirce, Los Angeles, president Optimist International, who arrived here Tuesday morning in the course of a tour of clubs in Western Canada. He will address a meeting of the Optimist Club of Edmonton on Tuesday at the Macdonald hotel, and will leave Wednesday morning for Vancouver.

Police Seeking Missing Persons

Two reports of missing persons were made Monday to city police authorities. Missing are Mrs. Kay Rosen, Edson, and Perry Granger, 84 years old, of 12428 66 street.

Mrs. Rosen, according to her husband, Viggo Rosen, left her home Nov. 13 with her four-month-old baby. Two other children were left in care of her mother, at Edson. In a note to her husband, Mrs. Rosen stated she was coming to Edmonton. She has not been heard of since.

She is described as being five feet six inches tall, weighing about 135 pounds, of medium complexion. She was wearing a black overcoat, light blue sweater and brown oxfords.

Perry Granger left a city hospital on Saturday, authorities were told by another resident of 12428 66 street, and had not returned to his home. Granger, said to speak French, weighs about 140 pounds, has a grey moustache, and was not in good health.

Disruption of Home Life Said Cause of Crime

Disruption of home life through parents being engaged in war work is one of the chief causes of the increase in juvenile delinquency throughout the United States, in the opinion of T. F. Peirce, Los Angeles president of the Optimist International, who arrived in Edmonton Tuesday morning to address the Edmonton club.

He is making a tour of clubs in western Canada, and will speak to members of the Edmonton club at a luncheon meeting at the Macdonald hotel. Wednesday morning he will leave for Vancouver, visiting Portland and Seattle on his way back to Los Angeles.

Mr. Peirce said that there had been an increase of 162 per cent in juvenile delinquency amongst boys in the United States, and 340 per cent amongst girls. This increase was recorded during the 12 months period ended July 31, 1943.

The Optimist Clubs throughout Canada and the United States were attempting to stem this rising tide of delinquency, and were meeting with success through the operation of boys' clubs in populated centres.

ACTIVITIES VARY

The activities of these clubs varied with the needs of the district. In one centre the boys were engaged in making model aircraft, at another they were interested in the breeding of pheasants, and in yet another an athlete club had been formed where professional boxers gave lessons. At Winnipeg the club had sponsored an air cadet corps.

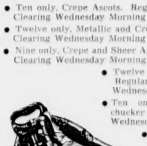

Mr. Peirce was greeted on arrival by Louis J. LaFleche, president of the Edmonton club, and other members of the executive of the Optimist club of Edmonton.

Debunker

The famous Madiera embroidered linens are not Madiera linen, but are Irish linen imported into Madiera. The embroidery of the linens is not a native art in Madiera as is supposed, but was taught to the natives by an English lady, Mrs. Phelps, who started a small school in Funchal, Madiera, in 1850. The natives took readily to the embroidery work, and today nearly every home is occupied with this work, as it is all done by hand, and mostly in the homes. It is paid for by the piece, and both boys and girls learn embroidery at an early age. So beautiful is the Madiera embroidered linen, that it is sold throughout the world, and is much imitated by inferior competitors.

What To Do

How do I pay my hostess when I have made a telephone call from her home?

Answer—You pay for the call as soon as you have it or you settle it as you are leaving. You may determine the amount of the call by asking the operator for "charges" when you are finished talking.

It is very rude to neglect this. If you fear your hostess will not take the money, leave the exact amount in an envelope where it will be found after you have departed.

A guest who is fair in every way is one who is welcomed back again and again.

Points for Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "Let's all think what we can do to make our mornings less hectic. I'm going to get up earlier so I'll hurry less."

Mother: "I'm absolutely exhausted by the time Jim and the children leave in the morning. We sleep late and I spend my time hunting school books and hurrying the children."

The morning approach to the day has much to do with determining what sort of a day it will be.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Arguments Death To Love Between Couple

Those Who Fall In With Our Ideals Make Best Friends and Are Not Easily Angered

DEAR MISS DIX: Is it possible that two people can be happily married if they love one another deeply, yet have different phosphies regarding life, happiness, success, and so many of the little common things that are really meaningless until they pop up in marriage?

The young man to whom I am engaged is in the Army and expects to marry me after the war, but I have come to the decision that a marriage between us would not and could not thrive on two different schools of thought. We differ on so many points that we always seem to be holding a debate that often ends in a quarrel.

I come from a family that believes in security and taking thought for the morrow. He comes from happy-go-lucky people that lets the future take care of itself. He is 24 and hasn't even decided on his life work. He believes that the fun in living is to do whatever you feel like doing at the time, and claims that if I really loved him I'd be happy to live his way.

But I believe in having a plan of life and sticking to it, a goal to work for, and something to hold on to, and I don't want to trust my happiness to a man who is going to toll chance decide things for us. I will firmly say that I do not care to alter my viewpoints, because I believe they are right. Do you think it possible for him to ever change?

CONFUSED.

Answer: Love can take a lot of punishment and still survive, but argumentation is sure and certain death to it. The thing that binds us as others, whether they are our parents, or brothers and sisters, our friends, or our husbands and wives, is congeniality. We may respect those who differ from us; we may appreciate all of their good points, but we don't enjoy their society. They irritate us like a pebble in a shoe, and we avoid being with them as much as we can.

Why do parents have favorite children? Because Sally or John "takes after" them and thinks as they do about things. Why do certain brothers and sisters pal up together? Because they are cut off of the same bolt of cloth. Who are the happy husbands and wives? The couples who speak the same language, like the same kind of cooking, enjoy doing the some things.

No one, except those who are born with a chip on their shoulders, enjoy a perpetual fight. The people of whom we never grow weary are those who yes-yes us and with whom we can spend hours in amicable discourse, discussing our favorite themes, and who fall in with all of our plans. Nobody's idea of a pleasant evening at home is engaging in an acrimonious debate with someone who throws cold water on our every suggestion, opposes our every plan, and tells us how idiotic our every viewpoint is.

For any marriage to be happy and successful the husband and wife must be congenial. For whether they live together in harmony or are continually in each other's hair depends upon whether they can talk together without arguing, whether they are both stay-at-homers or stepper-outers, whether they have the same religion and politics, and like their coffee strong or weak.

Don't marry a man with whom you argue before marriage. You will divorce him if you do, or else become one of the bitter, disgruntled wives who are always chewing their tongues off to keep from telling their husbands what they think of them.

SAILOR'S LIFE

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a sailor and on my first leave home after I joined the Navy I wanted to have someone waiting for me when I came back, so I became engaged to be married. When I went home again I decided I wasn't in love with the girl, as I thought I was, and I found someone new.

Now I am back at my station waiting to be shipped across and I think I must have been crazy to have done what I did because I am not in love with either one of the girls. I was just lonesome. I have told both of the girls how I feel, but they keep writing me letters saying they don't want to give me up. What should I do?

A GOB.

Answer: As you value your safety I urge you not to answer the letters of either girl. Your little protector is silence. Complete, impenetrable silence. When a man argues a love proposition with a woman, he always and invariably loses out. She breaks down his resistance by weeping on his breast, and by the time he has wiped her eyes she has him.

You are lucky in that you are about to be sent overseas, because where you are going the girls cannot follow you, and by the time you get back they will have given up the chase and be married to somebody else. But don't leave any clues behind you. And thank Heaven for your narrow escape. For, believe me, you are in greater peril from being shanghaied into marrying a girl you don't want than you ever will be from being captured by the Japanese or the Nazis.

One of the most tragic and pitiful things about this whole war is the number of young boys who are wrecking their whole lives by making unfortunate marriages that should never take place. So many of the boys are so young, so unsophisticated, so ignorant of life, so utterly unfitted to deal with women's wiles. They are fresh from home and Mother. Among strangers. They are desperately lonesome. They want somebody to love, somebody to miss them, and so they are easy prey for the first man-hunting girl who comes along.

Thousands of these boys marry girls they have only known a few days, sometimes only a few hours. They marry girls who are out of their class, girls who are not fit for them to marry: girls whom they will tire of in a week and hate the balance of their lives, but who will cling to them like leeches and drain them of not only all of their money, but of their happiness and their hopes of success in the world. What a pity that our soldier boys can't distinguish them between loneliness and love!

TEARS?

DEAR MISS DIX: Why do they tell us not to cry when our sweethearts leave for the Army? When mine went away I spent the evening crying and he said he was glad I did because it showed how much I cared for him, and that I looked beautiful with the moonlight on the tears on my cheeks. I am sure lots of the boys feel this same way, so why shouldn't we send them away with a smile?

A READER.

Answer: There is no accounting for taste, and if your boy friend thinks you look beautiful with red eyes and a swelled nose, by all means turn on the weeps. But most men loathe nothing so much as they do a teary woman. And when they are feeling low down themselves at parting from one they love, it doesn't boost their morale any to carry away with them the picture of her sobbing her heart out.

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Don't slave over the Thanksgiving dessert. It's neither necessary, nor good form in wartime. But make dessert good to eat and good to look at—also easy on ration points.

MARBLE PIE

One package prepared chocolate pudding, 1 package prepared vanilla pudding, 3½ cups milk (1¾ cups per package), 1 baked 9-inch pie shell.

Marble pie makes an easy de luxe Thanksgiving dessert.

Prepare puddings as directed on packages, reducing milk in each recipe to 1¾ cups. Cool to lukewarm. Put by tablespoons into cold puddings. Then with knife or spatula cut through filling in wide zigzag course; repeat in opposite direction. Chill.

APPLE PAN DOWDY

(Serves 6-8)

Eight tart cooking apples, ¼ cup water, 1 cup molasses, 2-3 cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, pastry.

Peel, quarter and core apples. Place in covered casserole dish; add water, molasses, sugar and salt. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 minutes; remove cover and bake for 15 minutes longer. Remove from oven; cool; dot with butter. Roll pastry to ¼-inch thickness, prick with fork; cover apples. Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 10 minutes; reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and continue baking 20 minutes longer.

CRANBERRY APPLE SAUCE

(Makes about 1½ quarts sauce)

Two cups sugar, 2 cups water, 2 apples, peeled and cubed; 4 cups fresh cranberries, 1 one-inch stick cinnamon.

Boil sugar and water together 3 minutes. Add cubed apples and cook gently for 3 minutes. Apples should be slightly softened but still hold their shape. Add cranberries and stick cinnamon and boiol without stirring until all the skins pop open (5 minutes as usually sufficient). Remove from fire and allow the sauce to remain in saucepan until cool. If you are saving sugar, but he is the butt of everyone's discipline. The whole world is intent upon seeing that he doesn't do what he wants most earnestly to do.

"Stay away from the lamp," his mother shrieks at him and if, despite this warning, he pulls the chain and the lamp bursts into exciting brilliance, all he gets is a slap for his cleverness.

He may cry because the bath water is to hot, or the soap slips away or the blocks won't stand up or some other child snatches his Panda away. When he cries and his mother's nerves crack, he gets punished for crying as wel as having to endure the punishment inflicted by his experience.

Living is far from a glorious adventure to the curious, inquisitive two-year-old. It is a combination of enchantments, spiced by curiosity and embittered by his own weaknesses and the ever present effort to overcome the all-seeing adults who surround him. His happiness against their power; no wonder he cries. No one can take that privilege away from him slaps, or punishment notwithstanding.

He can cry and he does cry. He stands in the middle of the room and as if someone had pulled a cord or opened a faucet the tears spring full-blown from his eyes and his wails fill the universe. That is a more typical picture of the 2-year-old than a child of sweetness and smiles.

Our leaflet "How to Manage the Child Wisely," is devoted to the problems of the runabout. . . . It may be had by sending a 4-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow's Menu

(Eat the Basic 7 Every Day)

BREAKFAST: Sliced oranges, whole wheat cereal, fried scrapple, enriched toast, jelly, coffee; milk for children.

LUNCH: Vegetable chowder, whole wheat bread, butter, apple, nut and cereal salad, oatmeal cookies, tea; milk for children.

DINNER (Thanksgiving): Fruit cup, baked ham, candied sweet potatoes, saute of corn and green peppers, cranberry apple sauce, corn bread butter, tossed greens salad, marble pie, nuts, raisins, coffee, cider; milk for children.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

No human being who ever has lived with or near a child of two years, or thereabouts, needs to be told that at this age crying is as automatic as breathing.

This behavior begins when the child runs about and starts the exploration of the home and the environment in which he lives. It develops when he begins to play with other children. For it is then he discovers he is no longer the imperious, all-conquering, all-powerful individual he had imagined himself to be.

Life is a mess of pitfalls for the runabout. When he investigates objects they bite and pinch and slap (if animate) and burn and break and cut if inanimate. Not only is he at the mercy of these attractions which seem so alluring in prospect but are so often painful in reality,

Son of Pioneer City Family Is Married at Home Service

The marriage of Miss Marjorie Jean Dotterer and First Class Stoker Sam S. Congdon, R.C.N.V.R., took place Sunday at 5 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Congdon, 11353 95 street. The Rev. Mr. Lee performed the ceremony. Mauve and yellow chrysanthemums were used to decorate the rooms. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Dotterer of Fallis and Stoker Congdon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Congdon, Edmonton pioneers who are now living in the Irma district.

The bride was given in marriage by J. Barrie and wore a teale blue tailored suit, a tiny silver fox hat and black accessories. A corsage of red roses completed her wedding ensemble.

Miss Treva Dotterer was her sister's bridesmaid wearing a black tailleur, black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Jack Congdon, brother of the bridegroom was best man.

After the ceremony a reception to members of the immediate family an close friends was held at the Royal George hotel.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Atkinson of Paradise Hill, Sask.

313 Articles Made by Club

The November meeting of the Mayfield chapter I.O.D.E. was held in the Macdonald hotel on Monday when Mrs. J. M. Fisher was convener reported that 313 articles were turned in including 150 for the services and 187 for refugees.

The parcels were made up of sweaters and skirts, 117 toy animals and dolls, five felt jerkins and six pair of mine-sweepers' mits. The chapter's adopted ship "Athabascan," was also sent a parcel.

Mrs. J. Connell Cooper, ex-service convener, reported that 96 members had tagged on Poppy Day, and a wreath was placed on the Cenotaph on Remembrance Day by Mrs. C. W. Boon, who represented the chapter.

The National Geographic magazine will again be sent to patients in the University hospital, it was decided.

205 DITTY BAGS

Mrs. Roy Schuler, Navy League convener, told the members that 205 ditty bags were turned in during November, and it is expected that many more will be filled before Christmas. Mrs. Schroter also reported on the I.O.D.E. semi-annual meeting held in Medicine Hat recently, where she represented the Municipal chapter in the absence of Mrs. R. E. Jones.

A discussion took place with regard to ways and means of assisting the national chapter in its November drive for books for the services. Cash donations or used books may be left at the sock booth in the Hudson's Bay Company store any day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

There has been an urgent request for books from the camp libraries convener, and the public is asked to co-operate during this month.

Sale of bungalow tickets will continue until Dec 17.

Miss E. Somers, S. E. Laidlaw Are Married at Wetaskiwin Home

WETASKIWIN, Nov. 16.—Of interest in Edmonton and Wetaskiwin was the marriage Saturday evening of Miss Elenor Ester Somers, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Somers of Wetaskiwin to Stuart Elgin Laidlaw, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Laidlaw of Merritt, B.C.

The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents at 7 p.m. Pink carnations, snapdads and large and small chrysanthemums formed a pretty setting for the candlelit ceremony. Rev. Willis Cann officiated.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore her mother's wedding gown of white chantung satin. Cut on simple lines with the skirt styled slightly en train, the dress had Honiton lace caught with pearls in a fichu at the neckline and in serts in the sleeves and skirt. Her chapel veil was held in place with a double strand of pearls and she wore a gold locket, gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of deep red roses.

Mrs. Lily Sears, matron-of-honor, wore a gown of embroidered georgette in ashes-of-roses shade which was worn by the bridesmaid at the wedding of the bride's mother. Her pink chapel veil was caught with a double strand of pearls and she carried a bouquet of pink carnation and white baby mums.

Little Rosalinda Grant, cousin of the bride was flower girl.

Lt. Ronald Laidlaw, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Wedding marches were played by Miss Marjorie Robinson and during the signing of the register, P. MacFarland sang "Thine is My Heart Alone."

A wedding supper was held after the ceremony for relatives and close friends. For the occasion Miss Somers wore a dinner gown of American Beauty crepe and a corsage of white gardenias.

Leaving on their wedding trip to Merritt, B.C., the bride wore a black and turquoise ensemble, black accessories and a black silver fox trimmed topcoat.

Flt. Lt. D. R. Grant, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast to the bride.

The bride is a graduate in pharmacy from the University of Alberta and is well known in Girl Guide circles in Northern Alberta.

Out-of-town guests included Flt. D. R. Grant, Mrs. Grant and children of Vulcan, Alta.; and Miss Gladstone Grant and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Moore of Calgary. Miss E. E. Olive, Miss Noreen and Miss Gladys Olive and Miss Cora Gregg of Edmonton, Albert Somerset of Camrose, and Pte. Alex Campbell of Merritt, B.C.

WEEKLY WARTIME FOOD HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed Home Economist, whose weekly cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints every Tuesday

by Martha Logan

Cabbage is for Kings!

Full of Vitamin C, Cabbage has come into its own as a favourite food

First a word to the wise about cooking cabbage as a green vegetable. It will have better texture, colour and flavour (and more vitamins) if you cook it quickly in boiling water (seven minutes shredded, a little longer in sections).

But don't be content only to serve it like that . . . or as cole slaw though cole slaw is nutritionally valuable. But there are so many other good ways of enjoying cabbage. For instance:

CABBAGE ROLLS to Serve 4

½ lb. ground beef	2 tbsps. chopped
8 large cabbage leaves	onion
1 cup cooked rice (or bread crumbs)	2 tbsps. fat
1 egg, slightly beaten	1 cup cooked tomatoes
½ cup milk	¼ cup sliced onion
	½ bay leaf
	Salt and pepper to taste

Parboil cabbage leaves 5 minutes. Combine beef, rice, egg, milk, seasoning and 2 tbsps. onion. Place a spoonful of meat mixture in each leaf and fold to cover meat; fasten with toothpicks. Brown in fat in large pan. Add tomatoes, sliced onion and bay leaf; cover and simmer 45 minutes.

SPICY CABBAGE AND SAUSAGE CASSEROLE to serve 4

½ lb. sausage	1 cup canned tomatoes, or gravy
1 cup vinegar	6 soda crackers (crumbled)
1 tsp. paprika
2 cups shredded raw cabbage

Crumble sausages and panfry. Mix in vinegar, paprika and cracker crumbs. Place layer of cabbage in casserole, then layer of sausage mixture. Repeat. Add tomatoes or stock. Bake, covered, in moderate oven (350°) about 30 minutes.

LAST MONTH, in one of these columns, I talked about the way youngsters like to put up their own school lunches. And, to tell the truth, I was amazed at the number of readers—both young and old—who wrote me afterward. Almost everyone was quick to point out that the younger generation not only likes to pack lunches, but also gets real satisfaction from various kinds of practical cooking.

More than one reader added this very timely thought: nowadays, when so many mothers are busy with war work, it is real family help when the children take an active part in making the kitchen run smoothly. It gives them the feeling of "doing something" important, too.

I've found through my own experience that youngsters make creditable cooks provided they're not hurried and provided they start out on things they really like.

And these are a "natural" for girls to start out on

BONNIE DEE COOKIES

2 cups Canada approved flour	1 cup seedless raisins
½ tsp. soda	1 cup coarsely chopped nut-meats
1 tsp. baking powder	½ cup shortening
½ tsp. salt	1 cup brown sugar
2 cups quick oats	2 eggs
	⅔ cup milk

Sift flour, measure and sift with dry ingredients, add nuts, raisins and nutmeats. Cream shortening with sugar; add well-beaten eggs and milk; combine with flour mixture. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 12 to 15 min. Makes 6 dozen.

One of the best things for boys to try their kitchen skill on is waffles and pancakes—but warn them not to "peek" while baking waffles, and not to turn pancakes until they are fairly full of bubble-holes on top.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Persistent weakness of the last 10 days today apparently induced some holders to lighten holdings on the market. Steep Rock traded 20,000 shares or more and dropped to 2.05 for a loss of 17 cents. Coast Copper lost 15 cents.

LONDON STOCKS

LONDON, Nov. 16—(AP)—Recovery tendencies in the stock market today were well maintained despite profit-taking near the close. Trading was in restricted volume. Industrials were generally in demand. Oils, Kaffirs and diamond shares finished firm. Home rails were selectively higher. International securities improved and British funds registered gains running to ⅛.

Invasion Drivers

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—The London Transportation Company's driving instructors—the men who teach the men who drive London's big buses—are teaching British and Canadian soldiers to drive trucks in preparation for the invasion of western Europe.

MARKET MOVEMENTS

NOVEMBER 16, 1943.

Stocks—
At New York: Distillers lose.
At Montreal: Mainly down.
At Toronto: Metals retreat.

Wheat—
At Winnipeg: Trading suspended; last close 1.20.
At Chicago: ⅛ to ¾ higher, closing at 1.59⅛ (Dec.).

Chicago Mart Weak at Close

CHICAGO, Nov. 16—(AP)—Although the wheat futures market opened strong in active trading, with rye and barley following the early fractional upsurge, later trade was listless and gains were shaded by scattered selling. December closed at 1.59⅛, or ¼ off from the day's high, a new seasonal peak.

Wheat futures closed ⅛ to ¾ higher. Rye finished ¼ to ⅞ up. Oats closed unchanged to ⅛ higher and barley finished the day with gains of 1 to 1⅛.

Wheat: Dec. 1.59⅛, May 1.57¾-⅝, July 1.55¾.

Oats: Dec. 78¾, May 74½, July 71⅝.

Rye: Dec. 1.12¾-⅞, May 1.13½-⅝, July 1.12⅝-¾.

Barley: Dec. 1.18¾, May 1.17⅞.

Cash wheat, none; corn, sample yellow 89-93; oats, No. 1 white, 87, barley, malting, 1.30-1.44 nom.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—Soaring liquor stocks of Monday suffered a profit-taking hangover today and leaders elsewhere slipped. Variations mostly were in fractions. American Distilling climbed 4½, lost this and as much more, recovered and again slipped at intervals.

Weakness Cuts Into Rye Prices

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16—(CP)—Rye futures opened strong today on the Winnipeg grain exchange but profit-taking, together with selling by nervous longs, brought values as much as a cent below the previous close. Final quotations were ½ cent higher to unchanged with December at 1.15.

Trade in rye was not large and the pit was deserted at frequent intervals. For most of the session the market moved independently of Chicago where values were firm.

Reports circulated during trading that Eire was inquiring for 3,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, but no actual sales were confirmed. Shippers purchased small amounts of Nos. 2 and 3 Northern, while eastern feeders took round lots of Nos. 4, 5 and 6 Northern.

Arrives Overseas

LAC. G. W. Hutchinson, 27-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hutchinson, 9742 100A street, who has arrived overseas with the 118th Wildcat Squadron, R.C.A.F., after a year spent on operational service in Alaska, according to word received by his parents. LAC. Hutchinson was born in Fairview, Montana, but attended Edmonton Public and Eastwood High schools. He enlisted in the R.C.A.F. three years ago, and for a time was an instructor at No. 4 I.T.S. He is an armorer. LAC. Hutchinson is well-known in Edmonton sporting circles, having been an enthusiastic curler before joining up. In 1936 he played second on his father's rink in the annual bonspiel when they captured the Gas Company trophy.

Great War Veteran, M. M. O'Brien Dies

Resident of Edmonton for 36 years, and secretary of the department of education, provincial government for 19 years, Maurice Mathew O'Brien, of 10611 87 avenue, died Monday. He was 62 years old.

Mr. O'Brien had been connected with the department of education since 1907 with the exception of two years he spent overseas in the last war, during which he served as a member of the 49th Battalion. He was a member of the 49th Battalion Association, and of The Knights of Columbus Council, No. 1184. He was formerly a prominent member of the Granite Curling Club, and honorary secretary of the Northern Alberta branch of the Canadian National Institute for the blind.

He is survived by his wife, four brothers, M. J. O'Brien, Vancouver; S. F. O'Brien, Berwyn; Staff Sgt. Maj. Fred J. O'Brien, personal selection branch, Canadian Army, Calgary and J. J. O'Brien, Detroit; two sisters, Mrs. Edward Moreau of Edmonton and Mrs. Frank Spicer of Grande Prairie. His mother, Mrs. Catherine O'Brien, also lives in Edmonton.

A funeral service will be held Thursday at 9:45 a.m. from the family residence to St. Anthony's Pro-Cathedral where the service will start at 10 a.m. The Right Rev. C. J. Foran will officiate. Burial will be in the family plot in South Edmonton Catholic cemetery.

Chickenpox Cases Reveal Increase

Sharp increase in the number of chickenpox cases was reported to the city health office during the week ended Nov. 15 compared with the previous week. During the week under review 32 cases were reported compared with 20 for the week ended Nov. 8, according to a report filed Tuesday with the city commissioners by Dr. G. M. Little, city medical health officer.

The following is the table of communicable disease cases reported:

	This Week	Last Week
Chickenpox	32	20
Measles	4	11
Meningitis (Mening)	—	1
Mumps	5	8
Rubella	1	4
Scarlet Fever	4	9
Trachoma	—	1
Whooping Cough	3	5
Vaginitis	—	1
	49	58

Dr. Little reported also that 40 immunizations were given to children on Monday. Immunization against scarlet fever, smallpox, diphtheria and other contagious diseases is given free at the civic block between 2 and 4 p.m. each week day except Saturday when the treatments will be given between 9:30 and 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. W. P. Pitfield, Old-Timer, Is Dead

Mrs. Mary Clyde Pitfield, wife of Walter P. Pitfield of Horne and Pitfield Ltd., wholesale grocers, died Monday afternoon at her home at 10214 125 street.

Old timer of Edmonton, Mrs. Pitfield was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Matheson, well known old timers here. She was a member of Christ church.

Besides her husband she is survived by one son, Barclay, of Edmonton, and one daughter, Mrs. Donald P. McLaws, of Calgary, one brother, Charles Matheson, Jasper, and two sisters, Mrs. B. H. Simpson and Mrs. W. H. Alloway, both of Edmonton.

A funeral service will be held at 3 p.m. Wednesday at Christ church. The Rev. E. S. Ottley will officiate. Burial will be in Edmonton cemetery.

Court Hears Plea: Judge Is Lenient

William "Duke" Miller, Vancouver, who pleaded guilty in supreme court Tuesday to a charge of breaking and entering the Safeways Ltd., store on 118 aveenue was remanded by chief Justice W. C. Ives until the November, 1944 assizes for sentence after N. Stokes, over-foreman at a Vancouver shipyard, had made a plea for leniency for the accused.

Mr. Stokes, who produced $2,800 in bonds in court, said he was prepared to pledge the bonds on the future good behavior of Miller. "I am confident that if given a chance he will make good. He has been working in a shipyard at Vancouver, and if given a chance will return to work there," Mr. Stokes stated.

Chief Justice Ives decided to give Miller a chance, and asked Mr. Stokes to post $850 of the bonds with the court as surety for the accused.

Before the Magistrate

Cancellation of his driver's license in Canada for a period of four months, together with a fine of $25 or 35 days, was the penalty imposed on Armand Doucett by Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., in city police court Tuesday morning, after a plea of guilty was entered on the charge of dangerous driving.

Doucett, travelling south on 101 street in a truck at a speed estimated to be between 35 and 40 miles an hour, crashed almost head-on into a northbound street car on Oct. 28. He stated he was not going 35 miles an hour, and he had not seen the oncoming tram.

Mr. Millar reminded the accused that he had been convicted under the Highway Traffic Act on Sept. 24 last, while only the day previous to that he had been convicted under the Passenger Service Vehicle Act. In October 1941, he had also been convicted under the last-named act.

The crown contended that a very serious accident could have occurred. Sgt.Major Alex Riddell asked that the license be cancelled.

* * *

Joseph P. Breland left Canadian army headquarters at Borden, and to cover up his absence, he joined the navy, the magistrate was told. His place was in the army. Mr. Millar said he had better turn him over to the army.

* * *

Arthur Albert Thimer claimed he was too busy to report for military training, Feb. 27 last, stated R.C.M.P. authorities. Thimer, arrested only Monday, had his military notice, issued in February last, in his possession. He said he had been working for his father on the farm, and after getting married, assisted his father-in-law.

Thimer, who got notice to report for medical examination in November 1942, was fined $50 or three months, plus an additional three months and ordered to be escorted to the nearest training centre after serving his term of imprisonment.

* * *

Louis Phillips resented being jostled about, and as he had had a rather severe accident on Nov. 8, since which time he injured a finger on his right hand, he "pushed, not struck a police officer."

Charged with assaulting a police officer, he was found guilty and assessed $30 or six weks with hard labor. He had been here twice in October, said the magistrate, referring to the accused's record; here in 1942, and again in 1941.

"No," replied Phillips. "Three times all told."

"The record says four," returned Mr. Millar.

"Pardon me, three. Two $20 fines and a $40 fine," insisted the accused. "I'll lose my job over this."

* * *

Lambert A. Deagle pleaded guilty to being in possession of a quantity of spirits not purchased legally, and was fined $300 or three months with hard labor.

City detectives, investigated a car parked on 101 street about 3:30 a.m. Sunday, and in searching the vehicle discovered the liquor. Later, the accused had come to the police and said he had purchased the stuff from a soldier for $37, in anticipation of a party.

* * *

Phillip A. Weiler took a roll of building paper from the hallway of another man's house. On the way out, he met the owner, and upon being questioned, said he was doing it for a joke. Charged with theft before Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., Monday afternoon, Weiler said he was guilty of having the paper in his hands, but was not guilty of theft. Mr. Millar thought it was a mighty poor joke and told the accussed that he ought to have more sense. The case was dismissed with a warning to the accused not to come here again.

* * *

Walter Summers pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a motor vehicle at an unreasonable speed and was asked by the magistrate if this was an annual affair, as he had been here a year ago charged with dangerous driving. A traffic officer paced the accused at 41 miles an hour on a motorcycle, even as a school zone was passed. A penalty of $40 or two months was imposed, together with the warning that the accused could expect to lose his driver's license if he got back into this court.

* * *

John Tyler had a radio but no radio license, when authorities called at his residence. Pleading guilty to the charge, but adding that he now had a license, he was assessed $5 or seven days.

"The Doctor's Daughters"

By FAITH BALDWIN

THE STORY: When Jim Thompson becomes Doctor Hall's assistant, he joins the Hall household. Emily, a Visiting Nurse, is glad to see her father relieved of night calls. Nancy, spoiled and bored, is delighted to have a young man around. Mrs. Hall, however, is afraid Nancy's attention will be distracted from wealthy Frank Edgar.

CHAPTER VII

AT the beginning of his third week in Cranberry, Jim had fallen easily into the routine. From now on he would take over the night calls, calling David only if the case warranted a consultation. His time had been full, he had seen very little of Nancy. She was always out, it seemed. Frank Edgar came for her frequently. Jim had met and rather liked him, a big handsome man, his own age, or a little younger, with gay dark eyes and a square vital sort of face. Edgar had slipped back into civilian life with comparative ease and the only indication he gave that he had seen the war was that he never spoke of it. He never explained his injury but Elsie Edgar took care of that. Cranberry knew all about him and so did not have to ask questions.

The weather had changed, and became excessively warm. David returning from a staff meeting at the hospital, complained of a chill. Jim put him to bed, and took over, despite David's struggles. There was nothing the matter with him, he'd be damned if he'd stay in bed. But he did, almost contentedly, because Millicent stayed home from her interminable engagements to fuss over, and read to him, to see that he took his medicine promptly.

Jim was driving back from a call when he saw Emily walking from the bus. He waved, whistled and slid to a stop beside the curb. She climbed in gratefully, discarding her hat.

"It's hot," he said, "and you look tired."

"I am. How's dad?"

"All right. It's a light case. If we can keep him in bed he'll be as good as new by the end of the week."

She nodded. Presently she said, slowly.

"You think it's hot—out here? You should have been with me today . . ." She looked at him, her eyes heavy with fatigue. "My job sometimes includes some of the mill workers' homes. The stocking mills. They're a disgrace to the town. I'd like to give Frank Edgar a piece of my mind."

"He'd rather have a piece of Nancy's mind," said Jim lightly.

She thought, gravely. So that's how it is. She had seen the look in his eyes. She said, quickly,

"They're old friends, of course, and Nancy was pretty bored till he came back and started taking her to the beach and the club." She changed the subject. "Were you at the hospital today, Jim?"

"Yes . . ."

"You know about the polio case, in the mill section?"

He nodded.

"I'd heard."

"If we have an epidemic . . ."

* * *

When they reached home she hurried to bathe and change before going in to see her father.

When she went downstairs again it was to find that Frank Edgar had arrived for supper.

"Hi, Emily." Frank greeted her, grinning.

"Hi—"

"Still the little goddess of mercy?"

"Absolutely."

He said, "I never get to see you. Look, why don't you come to the club Saturday night . . . you don't work Sundays, do you?"

"Not every Sunday."

He was staring at her. He was saying, "And you used to be such a homely kid! Nancy was always peaches and cream, but you—"

Nancy came in.

"Sorry," she said — "Hello Emily . . ."

"You needn't be," said Frank. "I was just making a discovery." "What discovery?"

"Emily —"

"She's nice," said Nancy, smiling. "Lord, I'm starved. How's Dad, Emily?"

"Better."

"I ought to run up and see him," Nancy told them. "I haven't been near him all day."

"Don't get too near," said Emily warningly. "Remember."

But Nancy was out of the room, was running up the stairs. A moment later Jim came into the hall from the office and followed her. Frank said:

"The new assistant's smitten, isn't he?"

"Smitten." asked Emily, "what do you mean?"

She knew, however, and it appalled her to realize how much she resented, how much she hated, knowing.

"With Nancy. I don't blame him, she's a cute little trick. Emily, why don't you come to the club Saturday?"

"I thought that Nancy . . ." she began.

"Think again. I haven't asked her. I am asking you."

The club had been transformed into a canteen and as such was keeping up its regular Saturday night dances. Everyone was invited but the emphasis was on servicemen from a nearby base. Emily, however, hadn't been there this season. Had she a decent frock? She hadn't heard dance music except over a radio . . . she hadn't danced. . . . She drew her slender brows together while Frank walted.

"Be a sport," he urged.

"All right," she said finally, "if you're sure that Nancy . . ."

He said carelessly:

"There are a dozen uniforms waiting to take Nancy. . . . I hardly danced with her last night. . . ."

McCoy Health Service

Walking is at the same time one of the best, and the least expensive, of outdoor exercise. When only one hour a day may be spent in exercising, then there is no other exercise which will be as pleasing and beneficial as walking. It is possible to walk from three to four miles in an hour and there is something almost magical in the vitality which can be developed in an hour's walk.

Walking is the most natural exercise for man was building up health and endurance by putting one foot before the other long before the invention of exercising equipment seen in the modern gymnasium. It is also a very easy exercise—so easy that almost anyone can do it. Moreover, it may be easily adjusted to the strength and the vitality of the person attempting it. The one who is in good condition will be able to make it a very vigorous exercise by increasing the pace to a rapid walk and by increasing the distance covered, while the one who is in poor condition may stay within the limits of his strength by walking not quite so fast and walking for shorter distances.

Even those who seem to be low in endurance upon starting to walk will find that their strength increases slowly but surely, by regular walking. Real endurance can only come from the use of exercises which build vitality by a systematic repetition of such exercises. Those who seem to be enervated or all tired out, and who complain of little endurance, will find that the simple repetition of the movements made in walking will bring the desired vigor and vitality. It is not by chance that the one who walks regularly, day after day, finds himself steadily growing stronger.

At first glance, it might seem that the chief benefit from walking would be to the legs. Of course, the muscles of the legs do benefit to a remarkable degree, but the value of walking is not confined to the legs alone. The practice of walking is also of value to the lungs, especially if deep breathing exercises are practiced as one walks. While you are striding along, remember to breathe in deeply enough and to exhale with enough thoroughness so as to fill the lungs with clean, fresh air and to empty them as much as possible of stale air. As one author put it, "Try to breathe in the cellar of your lungs instead of just in the attic."

Having cleaned out the lungs with a few deep chest breaths, try abdominal breathing, making most of the movement occur in the top part of the abdomen. You will discover that this method of breathing will give all of the abdominal organs a gentle massage which will be very helpful. The oxygen taken in by better breathing habits will be rapidly absorbed by the blood and will be sent to all parts of the body, with a consequent benefit to the entire organism.

Walking has an excellent effect upon the general circulation of both blood and lymph. As the muscles contract, they exert a squeezing effect upon the veins and lymph channels, thus pushing both the blood fluid and lymphatic fluid back toward the heart. With the stimulation of circulation, waste materials are removed more rapidly, and each part shares in an improved circulation.

Walking is also of benefit by causing a better digestion, better metabolism, deeper and more restful sleep, and better nerves. In many instances, those who have been great walkers have lived for a long time, enjoying splendid health even after middle age. Such cases indicate that one may have an excellent chance of living longer, and growing stronger by this simple exercise of walking.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Premier Manning Charges Little Being Accomplished For Peace Despite Plans

That the growth of bureaucracy in Canada has a sinister parallel in a well-planned scheme by international finance to enslave the peoples of the world to a perpetual international money racket after the war, was the warning sounded by Premier Ernest Manning in an address delivered Monday.

Mr. Manning, speaking in behalf of the National Social Credit Party, charged that nothing tangible is being accomplished by the federal government to meet a dangerous situation at the close of the war despite the flooding of the country with various plans and schemes for a new order.

He urged the building of a strong, enlightened democratic movement in Canada with a Christian social order making for security for all as the objective, Mr. Manning's address follows:

FEARLESS ACTION

I want to make it clear that my purpose is to call for definite and fearless action and not merely to stimulate further prolonged discussion of post war problems and the national issues involved.

The trouble today is that while there is a great deal of discussion and talk about these matters, nobody is doing anything effective about them. There are hundreds of post-war reconstruction committees throughout Canada. Thousands of articles on these matters are pouring off the printing presses into newspapers, bulletins, magazines and books. Politicians of all parties are talking about what should be done or what they hope to do after the war. But the fact remains that nothing definite or effective is being done, and meanwhile our country is heading straight for economic chaos and disaster in the coming post-war period.

This is not a matter for conjecture. I tell you, fellow Canadians, the evidence is on every hand for all to see that unless the citizens of Canada individually and collectively, get busy and take definite action now before it is too late, we are in very real and grave danger of losing everything for which our men are fighting and dying on the battlefronts of the world.

Two years ago the prime minister of Canada warned the nation that "if that new order is not already on its way before the war is over we may look for it in vain." Are we then to assume that we are now witnessing the birth of "the new order" to which the prime minister referred? In the light of this significant statement we may well ask: Is the ever-increasing bureaucracy in the administration of public affairs a part of this new order? Is the virtual dictatorship over the lives of Canadians exercised by the multiplicity of controllers and boards and committees to be taken as evidence that the new order Mr. King envisions is already on its way? Is the rigid control and regimentation of labor entirely a war measure, or is that, too, another feature of that new order? Or is the birth of that new order to be seen in the piling up of overwhelming debts and the dominion government's policy of crushing taxation to which people are submitting under the stress of war?

PRESERVE SYSTEMS

If those things are not the evidence of the new order that is supposed to be already on its way, then can it be that its establishment is reflected in the careful preservation of the financial, economic and political systems, which brought us to the verge of disaster after the last war, and were responsible for the deplorable conditions which preceded the present conflict? Or it may be that we can see no further indications of what to expect from this elusive new order in the treatment that is being handed out to the men being discharged from the fighting forces, in the inadequate measures which have thus far been adopted for the rehabilitation of our returned men after the war, and in the Federal Government's attitude to old age pensions.

If these are a reflection of the kind of post-war order that is being prepared for us, then God help Canada. Don't you see, actually nothing really effective is being done to bring about the fundamental changes that must be made before there can be even a remote hope of a post-war order in which our people will be assured economic security and freedom. The blunt fact of the matter is that the senior government of Canada is just drifting along, trying to patch up a social structure which is rotten to the core, hoping that it will see us through the war.

But what is going to happen when all the problems that are piling up come crashing down on our crumbling social foundations after the war is over? What can be the result except economic collapse, social chaos and national disaster—with the alternatives of a rigid political dictatorship introduced in the emergencies under the pretext of saving the nation.

However, that is not the only menace with which the people of this country are confronted. Ever since the first gun was fired in the war, a carefully laid conspiracy has been at work using the conditions created by the war in an effort to rob nations of their national sovereignty, to eliminate true democracy, to undermine the British Empire as a Commonwealth of free and sovereign peoples and to set up a world dictatorship under a supreme international authority which would be able to dominate the economic life of every nation by controlling its money system, and its armed forces.

You may smile at this fantastic and far-fetched to those of you who have not yet realized the significance of recent events in the sphere of international politics—but I assure you that the evidence is so definite there can be no doubt about this matter.

"UNION NOW" SCHEME

Let me give you a few facts and leave you to judge for yourself.

At the outbreak of war you may remember that a great deal of publicity was given to a scheme known as "Union Now". That was the name of a book by a journalist called Clarence Kirshman Streit, who was connected with a New York paper, which, on the evidence of Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador to Washington during the last war, was controlled by a banking house that is an integral part of international finance.

Another book, entitled "Peace in Our Time", which was much publicized along with "Union Now" suggested an identical scheme as a basis for world peace. Its author was the son of the founder of the American federal reserve banking system and was closely associated with the same group of international financiers. There can be no doubt about the source from which the scheme originated.

This scheme suggested federal union of all the democracies under a central international authority. This authority was to be given control over international trade, finance, the armed forces and the citizenship rights of the Union, and the national governments were to surrender their powers in regard to these matters.

Now it will be plain to you, that control of money means control over production, distribution and every other aspect of the national life. The control of money and credit therefore is an essential sovereign power, which, in a democracy, must be exercised by the people. Without control of their monetary system—in fact without sovereign or supreme authority over every aspect of their affairs—the people cannot have true democracy.

So you see that the big idea under this scheme of "Union Now" was to remove the people's constitutional right to control the one thing which would give them real control over their affairs—namely the monetary system—and to place this in the hands of some supreme international authority who, in practice, would not be responsible to anyone, because their control of finance would make their power absolute.

POWER TO MANIPULATE

They would have the power to manipulate the money systems of the countries in the Union to impose any conditions they liked upon the people—and if the people were driven to desperation, they would find themselves helpless—for they would be unarmed and the supreme central authority would have control of the armed forces. Just to throw dust in our eyes these armed forces were given the reassuring name of an international police force.

That scheme is the blue print of "th New Order" which international finance has had in readiness since the outbreak of the war. The idea was to use the conditions created by the war to put it over, so that when the war was won by the democratic nations the fruits of victory would be their complete enslavement to a supreme international dictatorship—the very thing our boys are dying to prevent.

The adoption of such proposals would at one stroke result in the destruction of our national sovereignty, and of all true democracy, and, as I said, it would mean an end of the British Empire as a commonwealth of free and sovereign peoples.

You may think that such a thing can never happen. But you would be wrong. I tell you that not only can it happen, but it is happening—not under the name of "Union Now", not as a federation of democracies—ah! no, the tactics are more subtle than that.

You may remember last year we drew your attention to this very matter, and pointed out the sinister significance of the proposals which had been put forward on the same day by the financial experts in Great Britain and the United States for an international monetary system under the control of an international authority. The two schemes were identical in principle and gave the proposed international authority the means to control national monetary systems. Of the two, the American proposals were the more vicious, because they provided for that control being based on gold.

USE POLICE FORCE

When those proposals were put forward, the reputed author of the so-called British scheme, Lord Keynes, a director of the Bank of "England" which, as you know, is a privately operated institution in the international money ring, stated frankly that an international police force could be used to enforce its operation.

Subsequently Canada's financial experts put forward a scheme similar in principle. When the matter was raised in the House of Commons by the Social Credit members, the minister of finance admitted that if there was an international police force it could be used to enforce any such international monetary arrangement.

Recently we were told in the press that the British financial experts had agreed to the American experts' international monetary plan. So everything is now in readiness for setting up an international financial dictatorship, based on gold and backed by armed forces of overwhelming strength. Thus the pattern of the financiers' new order is taking shape.

I have told you no more than a fraction of the complete story—but it should suffice to arouse you to a realization of the peril we face, at least to the extent of investigating this whole matter more fully.

Whether we view the situation from the standpoint of national or international affairs, it is desperately critical.

Yet the situation is far from hopeless. The very danger of the position in which the people of Canada find themselves—a challenge to face the facts fairly and squarely, and then to join together in common action to deal with them courageously. As yet the people are still the supreme constitutional authority in this land they are therefore responsible, for everything which their democratic representatives do in their name.

To enable the people of Canada to express their united will and to get definite action on these vital issues in which their welfare is at stake, it is necessary that they should build a strong enlightened democratic movement—a movement of men and women who love their country, loyalty to the King and Empire—men and women who are determined that nothing should weaken our national sovereignty or sabotage our democratic rights—men and women who are determined that we shall put an end to this supreme money racket and build a decent Christian social order which will give security and freedom to all in accordance with the highest ideals of our British traditions—men and women who are determined that this land of ours shall not be drenched in the blood of revolution based on anti-Christian and alien ideas — and above all, men and women who are determined that we shall keep faith with our fellow countrymen who are laying down their lies for a Canada that is worthy of her children.

THAT IS CHALLENGE

That is the challenge I bring you fellow Canadians, and it is to this end that the national Social Credit movement is being organized across Canada to enable you to take definite political action.

PRIVATE BREGER ABROAD

"Didn't I warn you against taking him on a barbed wire party?"

Air Vice-Marshal Howsam Presents Efficiency Pennant to "M" Depot

With all ranks of the station on parade, and accompanied by impressive ceremonies, Air Vice Marshal G. R. Howsam, M.C., air officer commanding No. 4 training command, R.C.A.F., presented an efficiency pennant to Group Capt. R. M. Smith, commanding officer of No. 3 "M" Depot, Monday afternoon.

This was the third time on which the "M" Depot had won such a pennant, this time for the period July 1 to Sept. 30. There has been a total of five such presentations.

After the presentation there was a march-past of the "M" Depot men, with Air Vice-Marshal taking the salute.

In presenting the pennant, Air Vice-Marshal Howson said "It is indeed a pleasure to present once again to No. 3 "M" Depot the efficiency pennant on behalf of the minister of national defence for air. Before making this presentation I should like to say a word or two to the personnel of this station.

"The progress of the present war has shown clearly that set standards or levels of efficiency must never be considered as final. Methods of warfare are constantly changing with the development of new and better equipment. Aircraft which were first line fighters and bombers in 1939 are in most cases now considered obsolescent.

"This evolution in material and equipment has its counterpart in the maintenance of personnel efficiency. It is only by constant vigilance and by everyone, officer and airman, on duty and off, striving to do more than his share that we can keep pace with this scientific development and maintain our position on top.

NOW ON RUN

"The enemy rats of Germany and Japan are now on the run—as they are cornered and stand at bay the conflict will become more intense and grim. It is your duty—yours and mine, not to relax until the day of their unconditional surrender.

"You and your predecessors at No. 3 "M" Depot have demonstrated what you can do—you have done well—keep it up and good luck.

"Group Captain Smith, on behalf of the Honorable Mr. Power, minister of national defence for air I have much pleasure in presenting you with his efficiency pennant which your station has won for the third quarter, July 1 to Sept. 30 of this year."

Promoted

Capt. Parnell T. Scramstad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel G. Scramstad of this city, whose promotion to the rank of captain from that of lieutenant has been announced by headquarters of Military District No. 13. Well-known as a hockey star here prior to enlisting, he played for a Canadian Army team in England last winter. He is serving with an armored formation.

MORE FACTS ABOUT

The Coal Strike

The Strike Was Called in Violation of the Collective Bargaining Agreement and of the Laws of the Dominion of Canada

When the strike was called a definite agreement was in effect between the United Mine Workers of America, District 18, and the mine operators.

The said Agreement was to continue for the period of the war, and for one year afterwards until the next following March 31st.

The mine workers were protected against rising living costs through a special mutually agreed arrangement which was later superseded by regulations of the Dominion Government Cost of Living Bonus. All mine workers now receive a Cost of Living Bonus of 71c per day, or $4.26 for a full day's work.

The said Agreement provided for the settlement of ALL disputes by arbitration if other means failed.

There were to be no strikes or stoppages of work.

Government regulations and statutes also prohibit strikes in coal mines during the war.

The National War Labour Board has power to adjust wages where found comparably low.

This Board has already raised wages for certain classes of work in Domestic mines and made certain adjustments for overtime in Bituminous mines.

The Rates of Pay in Bituminous Mines are already Higher for comparable skill and experience THAN IN ANY OTHER INDUSTRY IN WESTERN CANADA.

The lowest rate paid, that for adult common labour on the surface, work no different in kind, hazard or exposure to common labour in the city or elsewhere, is $4.90 plus 71c Cost of Living Bonus, which is $5.61 for an 8-hour day.

The average rates paid for all classes of mine workers have already been published.

What Would Be Some Results of Meeting Strike Demands

(1) The bituminous coal mines could not continue to operate except at a crippling loss.

(2) Any increase granted the mine workers must eventually be paid by:

(a) The users of Coal
Through Increased Prices.

(b) or the General Public
Through increased taxes to meet the necessary Government subsidies.

(3) It would increase the price of coal approximately $1.00 per ton.

(4) It would cost the bituminous coal users of Western Canada alone approximately $4,600,000 EXTRA every year.

Aircraft Plant Victory Bonds Draw Is Made

Thirty-one Aircraft Repair Limited employees shared $450 in the plant's big Bond Draw held Saturday night at a "veterans' dance" in the company cafeteria. Each purchaser of $100 or more in the recent Fifth Victory Loan campaign at the Calder industry was in on the draw.

Top award, one $100 bond, went to N. Sands of the service hangar. Second prizes of $50 bonds were given to J. H. Jamieson, cleaning department, and S. Tatlock, stores. Shared among five employees, third prize of $25 war savings certificates went to J. I. Wood, assembly floor; Mrs. J. Morrison, trade school; E. P. McDonald, cleaning; E. R. Schoomaker, machine shop; and Miss M. K. Gray, stores.

Double winners were Mr. Wood and Miss Gray. Their bond purchases over $100 made them eligible for another chance on each additional $50 purchased. Each received one $5 war saving certificate, part of the fourth prize of twenty-five $5 war saving certificates.

OTHER WINNERS

Others winning part of the fourth prize were T. White, H. Carlson, T. G. Burkett, C. Hafstad all of woodworking; I. Russell, instruments; W. Briggs, cleaning; H. A. Dubeta, miscellaneous repairs; Miss G. E. Cassidy, trade school; J. H. Forgan, welding; J. C. Riddle, A. L. Horne, G. Conrad, Miss J. Highet, all of stores; R. A. Fleurvelling, and A. Lewis, engine shop; Mrs. J. E. Wilce, machine shop; Mrs. A. Calloway and Miss J. Ankers, sheet metal; Miss V. V. Evans, salvage; J. Smith, janitors; and A. R. Kirkwood, accounting.

Conducting the draw was Alex. Cunningham, engine shop supervisor, and chief salesman for the A.R.L. loan committee. Assisting were A. N. Willingham, assembly; D. H. Trew, R.C.A.F.; and K. E. Taylor, R.C.N.V.R.

Loan quota at Aircraft Repair was $184,300. Total subscribed was $277,450. Chairman of the A.R.L. Committee was J. A. Macdougall, secretary-treasurer of the firm.

Services Council Addressed by M.P.

Mrs. Cora T. Casselman, M.P. for East Edmonton, addressed the regular monthly meeting of the central committee of war auxiliaries on Friday afternoon and outlined the rehabilitation measures approved by the Dominion government. The need of a housing plan for service men who do not wish to go on the land or establish themselves on rural acreage was brought to Mrs. Casselman's attention and she said the Dominion housing plan probably would be of some assistance in this matter only, so far as it had not come into operation in Alberta. She did not think the rural acreage plan would be extended to cover land within the limits of a city.

The question of reduced transportation for service men was also discussed and Mrs. Casselman said she was working on the possibility of getting some equalization of fares so that the man with a long distance to travel would not be penalized.

The government does not favor granting a bonus to former service men and women.

The meeting endorsed the principle of day nurseries for Edmonton and Mrs. Casselman outlined the conditions under which the project would be assisted by the Dominion government.

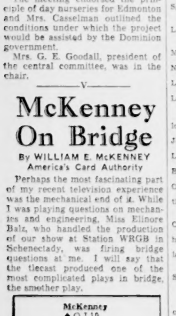

Mrs. G. E. Goodall, president of the central committee, was in the chair.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Perhaps the most fascinating part of my recent television experience was the mechanical end of it. While I was playing questions to the experts and engineering, Miss Elinore Balz, who handled the production of our show at Station WRGB in Schenectady, was firing bridge questions at me. I will say that the layout produced one of the most complicated plays in bridge, the smother play.

A. M. Sobel, the declarer, trumped the third round of diamonds, led the queen of hearts, and Mrs. McKenney South's friend to cover. Sobel then led the jack of hearts, which was allowed to hold. Dummy now held the singleton ace of hearts and South the king-eight. It would appear certain that South must make the king, but she didn't, because Sobel employed the smother play.

Three rounds of clubs were cashed, then the ace and king of spades. I (sitting North) won the third roundof spades with the queen. Now I could lead back only a club or diamond. East held the ten-nine of trumps, South the king-eight and West the ace of trumps and a spade. You can see that it was impossible for South to make a trick.

Declares Attacks On C.C.F. Strike Hopes of People

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Stanley Knowles, M.P. for Winnipeg North Centre, said last night when the old parties attacked the C.C.F. "They are attacking the hopes and aspirations of the Canadian people."

In a broadcast over a local radio station Mr. Knowles spoke in support of C.C.F. candidates in the Brandon and Portage la Prairie provincial by-elections, Nov. 18.

"Actually the (old parties) are saying to you that you are all wrong in your idea that after victory has been won you want our economy reorganized so that never again will there be unemployed in Canada," he said.

"You are being browbeaten for daring to want something different than the 1930's after this war is over."

Twin-Motored C.P.A. Plane Ends Twentieth Familiarization Flight

Completing the twentieth familiarization flight over the proposed new route from Regina to Edmonton by way of Saskatoon, Prince Albert, North Battleford, Lloydminster and Vermilion, a twin-motored Beechcraft airplane from the Saskatchewan division of Canadian Pacific Air Lines landed at Edmonton Monday afternoon.

This route will link the Saskatchewan division with the main line running to the Yukon and down the Mackenzie River.

The application for permission to operate the line is now before the department of transport, and operations may be commenced almost immediately on the approval of the government. A previous application was made some time ago and was renewed recently.

The new local air service will be on a twice daily basis and will not necessitate the employment of additional pilots or crews, but will be an extension of the Saskatchewan division lines.

Capt. James A. Bell, manager of the Edmonton Airport, and D. B. Wallace, assistant to the vice president and general manager of Canadian Pacific Air Lines, were on hand with Grant McConachie, general manager of western lines, to welcome the plane and its crew. W. J. "Bill" Wendrum, former Edmontonian and prominent early northern flier, is superintendent of the Saskatchewan division which will operate the new service.

Youth Hostel Group In Commemoration

More than 200 members of the Canadian Youth Hostel Association attended the 10th anniversary of the mountain region of the group on the evening of Nov. 11 at the Central United Church, Calgary.

Those elected to the executive for a two-year term were: Ena Paul, national representative; Roland Beard, Charles J. Everest, Jack Hodge and Mrs. Pat MacAllister. Those elected for one year were: Jean Casselman, Geo. Clitheroe, Edith Fraser, Connie Flommer and Beth Riddoch.

Ten years ago the first youth hostel on the North American continent was started at Bragg Creek 20 miles out of Calgary. The movement started the following year in the United States. There are now thousands of members in Canada and United States.

In the last year the mountain region operated hostels at Sarcee, Pine Creek, Priddis, Bragg Creek, Jumping Pound, Hollowood, Morley, Canmore, Healy Creek. There are other hostel chains in British Columbia, Maritimes, Ontario and Quebec, and all through the United States.

Edmonton now has a hostel organization with'a rapidly growing membership. Ralph Young was instrumental in getting a hostel under way during the last summer at Lake Edith. The Edmonton-Jasper-Banff-Calgary route has great possibilities for the C. Y. H.

Liquor Industry In United States To Be Examined

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Senate judiciary committee voted unanimously yesterday to investigate the United States liquor industry.

The committee voted approval of a board resolution for a subcommittee investigation of "business practices and operations" of the liquor industry.

Chairman Van Nuys (Dem.-Md.) told reporters the inquiry would start early next week with the calling of big distillery officials for questioning as to why "the retail liquor market suddenly dried up" when there is enough liquor in this country to last five or six years."
